JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Unemployment, Dope, Despair Spell Another Hot Summer; State Department Put Curbs on Viet Reporters In 1963; Air Officer Asked To Resign, Then Fired For Quitting

Explosion, Quake Connection

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A state mining official says there could be some connection between the devastating Feb. 9 earthquake and a fiery natural methane gas explosion that ripped through an underground tunnel apparently killing 17 workers.

Dr. Gordon B. Oakeshott, deputy chief of the California Division of Mines and Geology, said the quake possibly could have disturbed underground formations and caused seepage of the deadly gas that exploded Thursday.

Seven bodies have been recovered and rescue teams continued to search for 10 missing workers. City fire rescue crews said dense smoke and debris hampered efforts to find the missing men. Conditions inside the tunnel were described as "untenable to support life."

The tunnel, being excavated as part of a water project, traverses foothills near the quake epicenter outside suburban Sylmar. The area is studded with oil wells. Fire officials said oil seepage doubtless helped fuel a 14-hour fire that followed the blast and blocked rescue attempts for more than 12 hours.

The sole survivor of the blast—wan, red-eyed and weakened by injuries—told reporters from his hospital bed that he thought he felt two explosions in the tunnel, which is five miles long and about 200 feet beneath the earth.

Judge Refuses Medina Motions

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP)— A military judge refused today to dismiss murder and assault charges against Capt. Ernest Medina, whose infantry company staged the My Lai assault in 1968.

Col. Kenneth Howard, the military judge, then said the case would go to trial, probably late this summer.

The judge set July 19 as the tentative date for the start of jury selection.

"I do not find this case to be pervaded by command influence," said the judge as he denied the defense dismissal motions.

"I do not find it was the over-all policy of the Army to deny the accused a fair consideration of the charges against him," ruled Howard.

The judge added, "I do not find that he was to be tried regardless of the evidence."

Howard denied a series of 16 separate defense motions made by defense attorney F. Lee Bailey and granted only two minor ones. etc.

He granted permission for the defense to obtain a copy of a classified report on a military inquiry into the My Lai massacre. He also ordered the prosectuion to provide the defense with the names of its witnesses. More than 100 have been subpoenaed, but the government has indicated that not all of them will be called.

Medina spoke briefly to newsmen afterward.

"I've been waiting almost two and a half years for this to go to trial," said the oliveskinned captain.

"I'm glad we have a trial date. "I still have confidence I'll be found innocent."

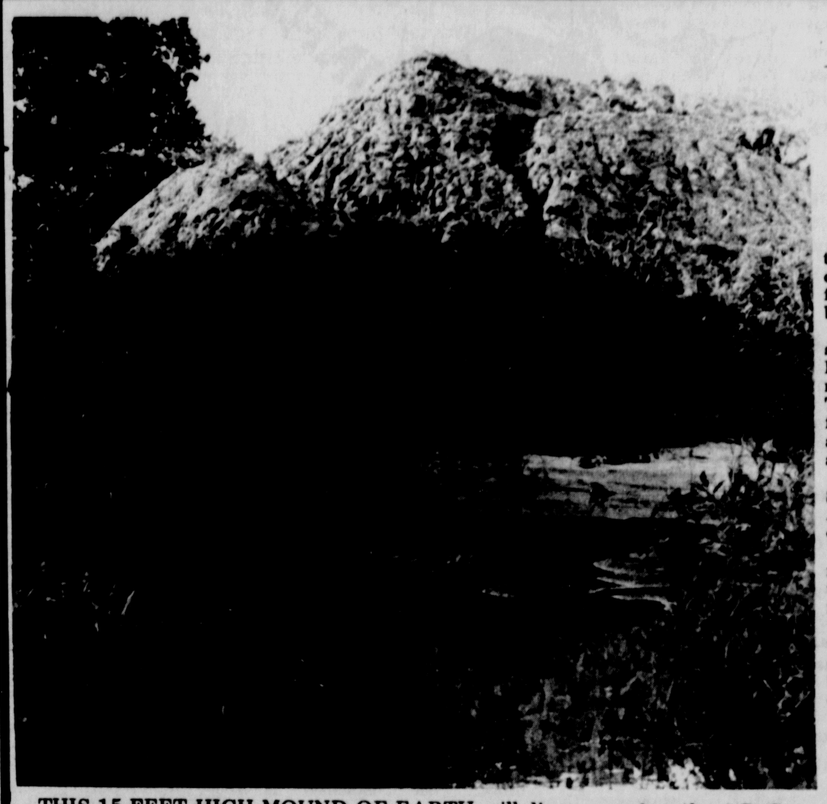
Ten witnesses, including two generals, testified in the course of the six-day proceedings.

Bailey's complex motions charge that all of the officers involved in the investigation and charging of Medina were influenced by pressures improperly applied by the Department of the Army. Such pressure is known as command influence in the military. He argued that charges against Medina should be dismissed because of such influence.

Bailey has argued that before Medina was even formally investigated, the Army decided he must be tried regardless of what the evidence might show.

Bailey charged that Army bias against Medina became clearly evident in two developments. The developments, Bailey said, were the Army's decision not to allow Medina to testify for the government at the trial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. and rejection of defense evidence during an Army investigation of the case.

Bailey said that in the normal course of events, the Army immediately would have produced Medina to answer Calley's testimony.



THIS 15-FEET HIGH MOUND OF EARTH will disappear when the A.P. Green Co. finishes mining on the site south of Benton. The company plans to reclaim the land.

Contour of Reclaimed Land Will be Rolling

By JUDY STROUP

BENTON — It will be some time before the mounds of earth adjacent to Highway 61 four miles south of Benton will be removed from view.

The earth is overburdened, scraped away by A. P. Green Refractories Co. of Oran, to reveal montmorillonite clay. The clay is used in treated form as a carrier for pesticides, as a moisture absorbative, and as a soil conditioning mulch.

"We acquired 600 acres in Scott County for mining," Andrew Clark, general manager of the Oran plant said.

"Our present practice is to mine about three months of the year and get out the material we need for a 12-month period. In wintertime, this material is difficult to handle because of its absorbency," Clark explained.

Materials are stockpiled, and covered with plastic for use the rest of the year.

"We will be through, hopefully, in three weeks if the weather holds," the manager said.

This fall, that portion of the 600 acres which has had clay removed from it will be reclaimed by the company.

According to Clark, A.P. Green Co. makes a practice of reclaiming the land.

"We include as part of our costs a reserve for such planning," he commented.

Reclaiming will consist of flattening the present mounds of earth, filling in holes dug for mining purposes, and planting undercover, shrubs, and trees as the clay supply is exhausted.

"The land will not be put back in the same contour," Clark noted, "It will be rolling. It primarily could be described as grazing land. It won't be as flat as what is on the other side of the highway however."

The company will reforest land mined this year in the fall.

"Our mining department plants pine seedlings, crown vetch, and autumn olive," Clark said.

"The clay mining industry is the one that wrote the recent land reclamation bill for Missouri," Clark continued.

"It has been our company policy for 15 years," he said. "We have mined primarily in south central Missouri, and all our areas are reclaimed."

The company's headquarters in Mexico, Mo., include a recreational area for fishing, boating, and picnicking, reclaimed from mined land.

When asked if it would be possible to develop a recreational area on acreage to be recalimed south of Benton sometime in the future, Clark replied negatively.

"The Mexico area was recalimed for company employes. We know of no benefit to us to cut ourselves off from the rest of our land. We have to have access to all the acreage," Clark explained.

No plans for sale of the land later exist.

Clay pits have served as recreational areas for beer-drinking teenagers in the past.

"There's some stagnant rainwater which I suppose would make a good swimming hole, but it's very dangerous," the manager warned.

"We are concerned with their (teenager's) safety and our liability," he noted.

Barricades were bulldozed to keep cars out of the area.

Safety is a factor not only at the site of the operation, but also at the company building, converted from the old Missouri Utilities facility to house kilns and an office.

"The company has been inspected four times by the state for safety, and federal mine safety inspectors will drop in periodically to make certain that we conform to the standards of the new mine safety act," Clark said.

A staff biologist for the Missouri Air Conservation Commission visited the plant Wednesday to familiarize himself with its operation, in advance of enforcement of new air pollution laws which go into effect this fall.

The air commission is concerned with the plant because its pesticide carrier product is a grade B poison, and is toxic if taken internally. The particles manufactured must be large enough to be free of dust, to insure that they get on the ground and not in the air.

"This is our most strict quality control," Clark said.

Surgeon General's Health Status Question Brings Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)— The U.S. Surgeon General has called his 5,500 commissioned public health officers to battle a recommendation that their special status, and his, be abolished.

The angry response of Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld came only hours after an advisory committee appointed by the Nixon administration said his post and the 98-year-old commissioned corps of the Public Health Service should be eliminated.

"The report is so destructive to the corps that we will continue to suffer damage to morale, to recruitment and to retention during the interval while the report is being considered," Steinfeld said in a letter to members of the commissioned corps.

The committee, headed by John A. Perkins, former under secretary of health, education and welfare, said the paramilitary cadre of 5,500 doctors and other health professionals has lost its special mission and should be absorbed in the regular civil service system.

The commissioned corps constitutes only one-seventh of the otherwise civilian, 40,000-man Public Health Service.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

If a man makes a reputation, he has to redouble his efforts in order to keep it.

* * *

"FOR THE NIGHT COMES ..."

An anonymous author wrote the following lines many years ago. Now more than ever they constitute a keynote for successful living. They might be called a "spiritual strategy": "The Lord has given to every man his work. It is his business to do it, and the devil's business to hinder him if he can. As sure as God has given you a work to do, Satan will try to hinder you. He may present other things more promising. He may allure you by worldly prospects, he may assault you with slander, torment you with false accusations, set you to work defending your character, employ pious persons to lie about you, editors to assail you, and excellent men to slander you. You may have Pilate and Herod, Annas and Caiaphas all combined against you, and Judas standing by ready to sell you for thirty pieces of silver.

"But keep about your work. Do not flinch because the lions roars; do not stop to stone the devil's dogs. Do your work. Let liars lie, let the devil do his worst; but see to it that nothing hinders you from fulfilling the work that God has given you.

"He has not sent you to make money. He has not commanded you to get rich. He has never bidden you to defend your character. He has not set you at work to contradict falsehood which Satan and his servants may start to peddle. If you do these things, you will do nothing else; you will be at work for yourself and not for the Lord.

"Keep about your work. Let your aim be as steady as a star. Let the world brawl and bubble. You may be assaulted, wronged, insulted, slandered, wounded and rejected; you may be abused by foes, forsaken by friends and despised and rejected of men. But see to it with steadfast determination, with unfaltering zeal, that you pursue the great purpose of your life and object of your being, until at last you can say 'I have finished the work you gave me to do.'"

Are big eggs more economical than little eggs? Not always. Small eggs can save you money when they are more than one fourth cheaper by the dozen than large eggs. Medium eggs are money savers when they are more than one eighth cheaper. The minimum weight for the large size is 24 ounces per dozen, for the medium 21 ounces and for the small 18 ounces.

FIT IT FIRST AND AVOID PAYING LATER

A growing number of state and local governments are being held liable for negligence associated with court-proven failure to maintain safe roadways. Few states need this additional and unnecessary drain on their budgets. In cases such as these, a nickel's worth of prevention is worth dollars in court costs.

Though most jurisdictions refuse to permit law suits based on failure to adopt or install traffic control devices, maintenance of traffic control equipment, once installed, is another matter. Failure to maintain streets and highways in a reasonably safe condition can result in legal liability.

Limitations do exist. In some states, liability is confined to instances where a physical defect or obstruction exists. Others, in growing numbers, hold that negligent conduct in maintaining either the street itself or controls necessary to assure reasonably safe travel can be brought before the court. A duty to warn may also be part of the duty to maintain.

Over ninety-three appellate level decisions since 1965 have considered whether a municipality, county, township or state should be held negligent for failure to install traffic control devices, failure to maintain existing devices or maintain a safe roadway.

Local governments have been held responsible for conditions on and along the roadway. And when found guilty, have had to pay damages.

Judgments against the state or local governments are increasing, adding additional demands on already strained budgets. The cost of prevention, in most cases, would have been far less than the cost of litigation. Technology and materials exist to make highways safer. The citizen's job is to insist that this technology be used to correct known or anticipated danger spots on or along neighborhood streets and roadways.

Preventive maintenance which upgrades existing roadways, signs, pavement markings and other driving aids can reduce traffic accidents and lessen the probability of serious personal and financial injury.

Highway users should report problem areas to their local traffic departments the moment an unsafe condition is noticed. When brought to their attention, maintenance men can be dispatched to correct the condition before it becomes worse or causes a serious mishap. Damaged street signs, ruts in the roadway and broken delineators can easily be replaced. Troublesome curves can be reflectorized to make them more visible at night. Accident prevention is possible when immediate corrective action is taken.

I'm reminded of the story of the beer drinker who drove 12 miles out of town where he could buy beer five cents cheaper. When I asked him how he could justify the expense of going 12 miles to save a nickel, he said the answer was easy — he just kept drinking until he got even. '

In socialist America today, one-fourth of the people are already living off of the other three-fourths, completely or partially. In federalized America 48 million people now get regular Government checks. That's roughly — and it is rough on those of us who pay the bills and don't get any checks — one out of every two households in America, assuming no duplications. That's even rough on the Post Office, having to deliver them. I dreamed awhile back that our collectivists had an answer for that too: That they plan to integrate carrier pigeons with woodpeckers, forming a pigeonpecker corps. The pigeonpeckers would not only be able to deliver the 48 million government checks, but they would knock on the door when they got there.

This is the story of false economy as practiced by a dress shop which recently closed its doors. Unfortunately, it is too typical.

The manager of the dress shop thought that he had an adequate advertising program. His advertising consisted of telephone calls to a list of prospective customers. The calls were made by idle clerks.

The manager explained that his advertising was economical because the clerks were not busy otherwise. He also pointed out that a highly successful dress shop in a nearby metropolis used the telephone advertising.

There were several important things about his advertising that the merchant never learned before his inevitable "quitting business" sale. Among them: That the admired metropolitan shop regarded telephone calls as a very minor form of advertising, which supplemented a large and continuous newspaper advertising program; That if an advertising program is successful, there are no idle clerks to make telephone calls;

That the telephone calls were only reaching five per cent of the women in the local trade area;

That a large portion of the women contacted resented being called away from their household chores to listen to a sales talk;

That the limited information related over the telephone was promptly forgotten; That, considering the time of the clerks, the calls were costing fifty cents per contact; whereas, complete and more effective contacts could have been made through the local newspaper at less than one-half cent each.

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you still having trouble telling the sexes apart?

You are? Well, little wonder. Instead of taking pride in looking different, the members of both sexes seem to be more and more determined to look as much alike as possible.

However, this mutual neuterization hasn't gone so far as yet that in most cases a determined bystander can't still figure out the sex of an individual. The question is why he would want to take the bother.

Here, for example, are a few remaining ways to tell the hims from the hers.

If it will still bend over to pick up a dropped penny, it is a middle-age male. If it won't stretch its tight girdle to retrieve anything less than a dime, it's a middle-age female.

If it is always accused of never listening, that's Papa. If it is always accused of never stopping talking, that's Mama.

Put a dinner check on the restaurant table. Does it make little shrill cries of alarm and say it has lost one of its contact lenses? Undoubtedly it's a career woman. Does it simply reach into its pocket and pay the bill? Undoubtedly a career man.

If it wants to go out and have a drink during a family fuss, it's the husband. If it wants to cuddle up and kiss after a family fuss, its the wife.

Can it forgive quicker than it can forget? A woman. Can it forget sooner than it can forgive? A man.

But what if you are walking behind a couple of teen-agers arm in arm, each wearing long hair, sloppy sweaters, faded and patched denim pants, and identical sandals? What about their sex?

If you're real nosy, you might ask them their names.

"I'm Pat," says one.

"And I'm Terry," says the other.

That's no help. What's in a name any more? The only way to be sure of the sex of a teenager is to be the parent of one and that's too much trouble to ask anybody to go to just to satisfy simple curiosity.

"An Industry Of Commitment"
Commitment"

Generaliy people agree that a measure of governmental scrutiny is a wholesome thing in regard to certain basic industries. But, when such scrutiny is turned into a crusade to destroy public confidence in an industry on the strength of half-truths and publicity-seek-ing headlines, the result for the victim can be disastrous. By the time an industry runs the gamut of biased figures and vote-catching statements emanating from a congressional hearing, it is distorted in the public mind like a mishapen reflection in a fun house mirror.

The U.S.prescription drug industry has been forced to stand in front of such a mirror for more than a decade. The president of a major drug firm has said: " ...those of us who are close to this industry see an industry which I sometimes wonder if ever anybody else sees at all. The world of headlines and the real world are far apart..." Concerning what today's prescription drug industry is really like, this spokesman observed: " .... This is an industry of commitment...." It is committed to research -- and spends more on research than its total net income. It is committed to development -- development of drugs such as penicillin which would still be a laboratory curiosity were it not for the huge investment and mass-production effort that made it available to all who need it. The drug industry today is committed to high standards of quality control and to 100 per cent distribution of its products. The smallest hamlet in the United States has available the most sophisticated of lifesaving drugs. The industry is committed to education carried on through technical journals, films hospital meetings, detailmen and literature. Finally the industry, as a private enterprise, is committed to promotion in the marketplace.

Without this, the other services would not be possible.

As the drug official observes, "..... the pharmaceutical industry is not just a manufacturing industry, but a service industry as well....a service and a product industry .... This is basic to an understanding of what we are...."

WHO'S 'TERRIBLY
WRONG'?

Sen. Stuart Symington has good reason to be critical about the publication of a report of the Senate -House Atomic Energy Committee before permission was obtained from its members.

In the report were conclusions supporting the construction of a third Navy nuclear- powered aircraft carrier — conclusions with which Sen. Symington strongly disagrees.

Symington believes carriers are too vulnerable to enemy attack and cost too much in relation to this risk. In response to testimony by Adm. Rickover, the senator pointed out the danger posed by the Russians' producing far more submarines than the United States.

In referring to what he called "terrifying figures," Senator Symington said:

"They show that we are putting our Navy on top of the water, in effect, while the Soviet Union is putting its navy primarily underwater. It shows that one of us is terribly wrong ... "

Certainly before Congress takes any action on the proposed third nuclear -powered carrier it should give full consideration to Senator Symington's arguments. Also to arguments of the Navy in its proposal for another carrier.

Development of all kinds of surface -to - surface and air -to -surface guided missiles seem to have greatly increased the vulnerability of all surface ships, including aricraft carriers.

The question to be decided is whether the money that would have gone into a third nuclear- powered carrier cannot be more wisely spent in building new nuclear- powered submarines to keep pace with the Soviet's fast-growing submarine force.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--Lawmen don't talk about it out loud, but they expect a big blow-up in the ghettos this summer.

All the explosive ingredients are present:

* Unemployment--More than 40 per cent of the black teenagers in the ghettos can't find work. At the same time, most cities are short of money and are cutting recreational services. Millions of young blacks will be in the streets, hustling pocket money, stewing over their grievances, looking for trouble.

* Addiction--Heroin addiction is centered in black urban ghettos. Of the nation's 250,000 heroin addicts, a disproportionate number are poor blacks. They must turn to crime to raise the $50 a day it costs to satisfy their craving.

* Disillusion--Miltant young blacks have abandoned any hope that the Nixon Administration will rescue them from poverty and discrimination. Increasingly, they regard revolution as the only solution. Many have been trained for violence by the Army.

All it will take, lawmen fear, is a hot summer to ignite the tinder.

--VIETNAM SECRETS--

Every Administration has been less than frank with the public about what has been going on in Vietnam.

As far back as 1962, a State Department message, still classified, directed U.S. commanders in Vietnam not to take reporters on missions that might result in bad publicity.

"Ambassador has over-all authority for handling of newsmen, in so far as U.S. is concerned," read the message. "He will make decisions as to when newsmen permitted to go on any missions with U.S. personnel....Correspondents should not be taken on missions whose nature such that undesirable dispatches would be highly probably."

The message also ordered suppression of the fact that Americans in 1962 were already directing combat missions against the Viet Cong.

"It not repeat not in our interest," cautioned the secret instructions, "to have stories indicating that Americans are leading and directing combat missions against Viet Cong....Sensational stories about children or civilians who become unfortunate victims of military operations are clearly inimical to national interest."

The message also warned sternly: "U.S. military and civilian personnel must see that (these instructions) are adhered to scrupulously and that Ambassador given complete cooperation if we are to avoid harmful press repercussions on both domestic and international scene."

Though this message has been superseded by others containing noble language about the public's right to non-security information, the original guidelines continue to be followed throughout the Vietnam War.

--AIR FORCE FIRING--

The Air Force recently urged a young officer to resign because of his views of Vietnam, then used his resignation as grounds for kicking him out.

Caught in the squeeze play was Lt. James Carr, a 1968 Air Force Academy graduate, who had planned an Air Force career but had gradually become disillusioned with the Vietnam War.

He joined the Concerned Officers Movement, and spoke to his immediate superiors of his misgivings. They suggested he should resign from the Air Force.

After talking it over with his wife, Carr submitted his resignation. His action had the approval of his superiors at the Malcolm Grow Medical Center, Andrews Air Force Base, outside of Washington.

But meanwhile, he discussed his Vietnam views in an impromptu television interview after a Concerned Officers meeting. This raised the hackles on the back of Air Force Secretary Robert Seaman's neck. His office promptly called the base for Carr's records, which were hand-carried by helicopter to the Secretary.

Carr's next efficiency rating was low, and his resignation was cited as the reason for the drop. Then Seamans turned around and used the poor rating as justification for bouncing Carr out of the Air Force. Instead of letting him go ahead with his resignation, Seamans gave him an involuntary honorable discharge.

In other words, Carr was advised by his superiors to resign, then was fired from the Air Force for taking their advice. "It would be ludicrous, absurd if it weren't so underhanded," he told us.

Footnote: The Air Force insists Carr was ousted because his "performance over the past three years was below standard." Until his dissent, however, his work was rated "outstanding" to "above average." As for the helicopter delivery of Carr's records, the Air Force said an officer happened to be going from Andrews to Seaman's office anyway and brought the papers along.

A WEST POINT DEFECTOR

First Lt. John R. Vequist made some remarkable statements in Stockholm, Sweden, recently. The lieutenant, who is absent without leave from the U.S. Army, said he could not "go along with the idea of killing people who had not done any harm to American citizens." Vequist, who arrived in Sweden on May 16 and asked for political asylum, also declared: "I feel that war should be waged only when a country has to defend itself directly."

Military officials cannot remember a West Point graduate who deserted or went AWOL. Of what sort of stuff is Vequist made? Traditionally, the U.S. Military Academy has turned out a large share of the professionals of Army Officer Corps. Our young men with aspirations to become Army leaders go there after highly competitive examinations and they attain an education at the expense of the nation, which is happy to pay the tuition but expects leadership in return.

It is not the prerogative of the soldier, be he a raw recruit in the ranks or chief of staff, to determine upon whom we shall wage war. That is the constitutional function of elected civilian officials. Vequist's case suggests that something has happened to us internally. Surley it is not national rot.

The Plain at West Point has always been symbolic of a democratic process that guaranteed our military preparedness. One solider who led us to great victories never forgot that Plain, for it instilled in him the greatness of leadership. Many years ago a song rolled across that Plain. "Old soldiers never die, they just fade away." General of the Army Douglas MacArthur continued to hear it until he faded away. HLH.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Few who know the black movements, few who know national politics, few who know the South and even fewer who know Mississippi politics don't know Charles Evers. He's the black mayor of little Fayette, Miss.

He is a man of strong words and stronger politics. Yet, he talks of building his small community just as would some civic leader thousands of miles distant from the tensions in his sector of Mississippi.

What of his relations with the white community? What of his attitude now? What of his struggle? I asked this black leader to answer frankly. Here is his reply:

By Charles Evers
Black Mayor of Fayette

Fayette, Miss.:-- In case you haven't heard, we're moving in Mississippi. We are doing this together, blacks and whites, because any other way is stupid, self-defeating and wrong.

It hasn't been easy, but changing the system never is. Nor has the change taken place overnight. Some of us have been hard at it for 21 years or more. And far too many have lost their lives, or been critically maimed in the struggle.

But there is no point in constantly dwelling on the past. Anyone who can read ought to know by now what kind of oppression Mississippi's blacks have suffered since the days of slavery.

What concerns me most is the present -- and the future. Today's Negroes simply are not going to permit our children to grow up in America denied the right to fulfill their potential in dignity as men and women. That is what the shouting and fussing is about.

But harsh words, threats and talk of burning have never gotten us anywhere. While I can sympathize with those relatively small numbers of Negroes who are convinced that the system will never change, especially among the young, I have to tell then that they are wrong. But they have got to work to change it. Nobody has ever given up privilege or power without a fight. The whites who control the power structure in Mississippi (and elsewhere) are no different. That is why we Negroes must be smart -- we've got to use our heads and hands to effect change.

We in Mississippi have learned that there are two crucial ways to change the system -- by ballots and dollars. We need political and economic power. Together the two are the route to freedom. That is why we spent so much time and energy registering black people to vote. Between 1965 and 1970 we increased the total of Negroes registered in Mississippi from 28,000 to 250,000. The white bigots and extremists fought us hard along the way. They killed my brother Medgar, Vernon Dahmer, Wharlest Jackson, Michael Schwerner, James Chaney, Andrew Goodman and Viola Liuzzo. All of them were registering voters and the die-hards knew that once we were registered, we were on our way.

But registering and voting by themselves were only part of the answer. Even after the number of black voters was large enough to effect the outcome of elections, most white politicians continued to drag their feet, whether it was to desegregate the schools, or attract jobs for our people, or provide food stamps for our hungry or decent medical care for the poor. (This foot dragging robbed the poor whites just as much as it robbed the poor blacks, by the way.)

So we finally learned that we ourselves had to seek election for public office as well. That is why I am running for Governor of Mississippi and why hundreds of blacks are running for state legislature, county offices, school superintendents, sheriffs, justices of the peace. It is the reason why I ran for Mayor of Fayette in 1969. We decided then that we were able to provide the kind of government that the white folks before us had never proved capable of -- a government which went out to meet the real needs of the whole community and not just a small part of it.

Well, after almost two years in Fayette, we have produced a record and I'll leave it to you to judge how well we have done. We have three new factories, producing wire harnesses for new autos, industrial cleansers and cement. Together, they will provide about 285 new jobs, half of what we need to turn the county around. We have a community health service that provides free medical care to the poor. In the first year, over 3,000 people have been treated out of a county-wide population of under 10,000. More than 80 doctors from Michigan have donated two weeks of their time to staff the service under the direction of a black doctor from Mississippi. We have opened our first child day care center to help poor working mothers as well as some on welfare. We have a modern vocational training center, which has trained over 200 local men and women for new jobs. We have, through the Medgar Evers Fund and HUD, begun to build a multi-purpose community center to house most of the town's vitally needed social and economic services. The Fund has provided the town's libraries with thousands of books, as well as with matching funds for a federal grant to equip the police force with new communications equipment. Different donors have provided us with a new police car, a new ambulance and a garbage truck which the Medgar Evers Fund reconditioned and painted. The latter gives us our first regular garbage collection service.

When we first took office in July of 1969, none of us had any prior experience in running a government. We were real novices. Fortunately, we were able to turn to SEDFRE (Scholarship, Education and Defense Fund for Racial Equality) which specializes in aiding new-elected black officials. They provide us with a broad range of technical assistance, from auditing the town's books and helping to draw up a new budget to the training of our Aldermen on how to run meetings, decided on legislation and draw up applications for federal aid. SEDFRE assigned an expert to help train our police force for one year. They employed an economic development firm to conduct a survey of our economy. In short, they helped us to telescope the learning period so that we were able to perform our duties and deliver services in a relatively short time. And let me tell you that once the local white people realized that the prosperity of blacks also meant increased prosperity for whites, a great deal of resistance to our changes disappeared.

Much of this progress was made possible by whites from across the nation who donated their time, skills, and money to the Fayette Experiment. They appreciate that what we are doing here is a microcosm of what can be done everywhere, if people only put aside their hate on both sides and work together for the common good.

We have not solved all, or even most, of Fayette's problems. Nobody could do that in two years because they are the accumulated problems of four centuries. But we are on our way and our people sense it. Life is already visibly better than it was for many, black and white. If we keep going, it will continue to improve. And we shall show the American people that together, we can overcome.

Clothes Should Be Kept Simple

NEW YORK (AP) — Know yourself and keep your clothes simple. This advice is from designer Halston, cowinner with Betsey Johnson of the "Winnie" award, for excellence in fashion design announced at the 1971 Coty American Fashion Critics' Awards presentation Tuesday.

Designer Anne Klein was elected to the Coty Hall of Fame, and Larry Kane of Raffles Wear took the Menswear Fashion Award.

"Sit down and analyze yourself. Don't overbuy," Halston said.

"People need fewer clothes today, not such a vast dress up wardrobe," he said, noting the trend toward home entertainment instead of a big night on the town.

Halston noted that his customers—often rich, chic fashion leaders—look for washable, packable, wearable clothes. Among his customers are Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, Mrs. William Paley, actress Ali McGraw, Marisa and Berry Berenson and Lauren Bacall.

Halston's clothes are famous for their sleek sinuous lines. His fall collection is filled with skinny, body-hugging styles with some blouses, draped very low in front.

Halston shared the "Winnie" honors with Betsey Johnson, designer for Alley Cat, a junior sportswear manufacturer, and for her New York boutique, Betsey, Bunky and Nini.

This year's Coty awards were elected by a vote of more than 400 fashion editors across the county. Coty, Inc., has sponsored the presentations since 1943.

Ann Landers

Teens Want More Than Things from Parents

Dear Ann Landers: I started a letter to you a couple of hours ago. I left it on my desk after writing only a few lines. My dad walked by and saw it. He said in a half-kidding way, "I see you are writing to Ann Landers. I can't imagine what YOU have to complain about." I didn't answer. At the dinner table he started again---"Don't forget when you criticize your parents to Ann Landers, be sure to tell her you have your own telephone, that we remodeled your bedroom and put in a stereo. Be sure to mention that we promised you a trip to Europe next summer after graduation."

It's funny, I WAS going to mention all those things--- in a different context. My whole life seems to be things, things, things-- and more things. I'd gladly give up all the THINGS if my parents would only treat me like an adult. I can't recall ever having had a real converation with either of them. I guess this is my problem, Ann Landers. What's the solution?--Too Much And Too Little

Dear Too: I gather you are about 17---and this is pretty late to try to initiate your first real conversation with your parents. From your father's remarks, I assume you two are operating on different wavelengths.

Parents who believe a stereo and a trip to Europe are where it's at are a sad lot. Unfortunately, they become sadder as time goes on and they realize they have no relationship with their children.

Dear Ann Landers: Should I continue to remain friendly with a person who is in desperate need of professional help--even though the relationship is threatening my own emotional balance? This person keeps me on the phone for hours and the conversations usually end with her screaming and hanging up on me.

I feel sorry for her, but I fear for my own mental health. Sometimes, after a particularly stormy session, it takes days before I am able to regain my sense of balance. If, in your opinion, I should discontinue the relationship, please tell me how to show this person I wish her well.--A.T.H.

Dear A.T.H.: You can best help your friend by suggesting the names of two or three doctors who have helped others.

Only an extremely stable person can tolerate the abuse of a sick person without feeling hurt or resentful. You obviously cannot handle it, and you should not try.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me what is wrong with people who do not answer letters. I have called friends long distance after extended periods of silence, just to see if they are all right. On the phone they say, "I'll put a letter in the mail today"--but they don't.

This has happened to me so many times I have just about lost my faith in people. I enjoy writing letters. To me, it's the next best thing to conversation. I can't understand why, at this very moment, at least 15 people owe me letters. Why are so many people slobs?--- A Mystery Wrapped In An Enigma

Dear Wrapped: Not all derelict correspondents are slobs. Some are rather nice folks who are unsure of their spelling, their penmanship, or grammar--or they re-read a letter after having written it, and it sounds dumb, or illiterate, so they decide no letter at all would be better than what they're written. Reserve judgment honey, because you never know why people don't write.

Give in or lose him...when a guy gives you this line, look out! For tips on how to handle the super sex salesman, check Ann Landers. Read her booklet, "Necking And Petting--What Are The Limits?"

Matinee Produces Los Angeles Romp

What is so rare as a day in June?

Any weekday when the Dodgers play baseball in Los Angeles.

Or a Tom Seaver home run.

The Dodgers made the most of an infrequent matinee home date Thursday, trouncing St. Louis 11-4 with a sunburst of 14 hits.

Then, in a night game, the New York Mets made the most of Seaver's second major league homer—a tie-breaking shot in the eighth inning—to nip the Montreal Expos 2-1 behind their ace right-hander's five-hitter.

In the only other game on the National League schedule, Philadelphia shaded Cincinnati 3-1 on a two-run single by rookie Roger Freed in the 10th inning.

In the American League, Milwaukee trimmed California 6-0; Baltimore whipped Washington 6-1 and Detroit blanked Cleveland 3-0. Oakland and Minnesota were rained out.

The Dodgers, beaten twice by the Cardinals under the lights, bounced back to take the finale of the three-game set before an afternoon crowd of 19,282.

It was the only midweek day game scheduled this season for Los Angeles, where the Dodgers played exclusively at night last year except on weekends.

"I like it," said Jim Lefebvre, who broke out of a two l tump to pace the Dodgers' attack with a homer and two singles, good for four runs batted in. "Now I can have dinner at home and relax."

Lefebvre, who went into the game with just four hits in his previous 38 at-bats, poked an RBI single as the Dodgers exploded for eight runs in the second inning, then poled his seventh homer of the season with two on in the fourth.

Lefebvre's three hits brought his season average back up to .284.

Seaver jumped on a 1-1 pitch from Bill Stoneman with two out in the eighth and drove it over the left field fence to break a 1-1 deadlock at Montreal. The first homer of his five-year NL career also came at the expense of the Expos—last season with Rich Nye the victim.

He struck out nine Expos on the way to his ninth victory against three setbacks.

Stoneman, 9-6, also gave up five hits before giving way to a pinch-hitter in the eighth and struck out eight, bringing his league-leading total to 134.

The Reds, victims of Rick Wise's no-hitter Wednesday ni ght, finally broke their scoring famine when two-out doubles by Tony Perez and Bernie Carbo in the ninth lifted them into a 1-1 tie.

But the Phils pushed over the deciding runs in the 10th on Larry Bowa's single, a sacrifice, two walks and Freed's bases-loaded single up the middle.

Deer Season Set

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The gun hunting season on deer in Missouri this year will run for nine days, from Nov. 13 through Nov. 21.

The archery season will be the same as last year, from Oct. 1 through Dec. 31.

During the gun season successful hunters must tag their deer and take them to a checking station in the county where the animal was bagged, or an djoining county, the same day. Before and after the gun season archers must have their animals checked within 24 hours.

The conservation commission ordered last year's system of deer hunting units or regions continued.

This time it will be a boon to northeast Missouri (unit 3) where plentiful animals will give hunters the right to kill any deer the first two days of the gun season.

Units 5 and 6 also will have the first two days of any deer hunting.

In units 7, 8 and 9 it will be any deer the first four days and bucks only thereafter.

Units 1, 2, 4 and 10 will be bucks only for tne entire season.

Several special and managed hunts on refuge or wildlife areas will be announced by the commission next month.

Here are the unit designations:

1 — West of U. S. 69 from Missouri River to Iowa line.

2 — East of U. S. 69, north of I-70 and west of U. S. 63.

Willie Tops All Star Vote

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays replaced Johnny Bench as the leading vote getter in the balloting for the National League All-Star team, the Commissioner's office announced today.

With over one million ballots counted, and less than one week to go before the voting deadline of June 30, the Giants venerable 40-year-old center fielder has received 540,390 votes, while Hank Aaron of Atlanta is third with 526,386.

The closest race is for the starting shortstop berth. But Harrelson of the Mets leads with 276,809, but he is followed closely by Don Kessinger of the Cubs, 211,885, and Maury Wills of the Dodgers, 197,735.

Willie Stargell of the Pirates, who leads the majors in homers and RBI, is third in the outfield behind Mays and Aaron. Joining Bench and Harrelson as the infield leaders are Willie McCovey, Giants, first base; Glenn Beckert, Cubs, second base; and Joe Torre, Cardinals, third base.

The All-Star game is scheduled to be played Tuesday night, July 13, in Detroit.

Both the Elks and Harts Standard scored narrow victories in Senior Babe Ruth baseball play last night at VFW Stadium.

Elks, 7-0 in the league standings, came from behind with a six-run last inning to avoid their first loss of the season.

Elks won the contest over Leible implement 7-5.

Harts Standard halted a last inning Lindsey M & H rally with the scoring and winning runs stranded on base to win 7-6.

The Elks put one run on the scoreboard in the first to grab an early lead. Leible responded with four runs in the third and one additional mark in the fifth to move ahead, 5-1. Two walks and three consecutive singles in the third gave Leible the four runs.

The last inning was all the difference. The Elks pushed the winning runs home to protect their undefeated statis.

Leible's Danny Hei belted a triple and a single to anchor the four hits. Bill Colwick worked the mound for the Leible and received the loss.

The Elks scattered six hits, including a double by David Evans. Five of the Elks' safeties came in the final inning. Mike Mitchell was the winning hurler. Harts Standard picked up 11 hits and scored seven runs in its victory over Lindsey's M & H. Phil Puckett, Gary Vaught, and Danny Lefler each belted two hits for Harts, and Centerfielder Mike Collier crossed home plate for three of the seven runs.

Lindseys put together a late rally in the final inning, scored one run, but left the tying and winning runs on base. Mike Nelson, Churck Leible, and Eddie McDowell each collected two hits in M & H's 10-hit barrage.

Leible suffered the loss and Vaught collected the win from the mound for Harts.

American League

Caproco's 16-3 baseball victory over Sealtest in the American league last night was just a small sign of what followed.

In the nightcap Ziegenhorn Insurance embarrased Ryan Construction in a 46-1 contest.

Two doubles by Caproco's Gardner, and two base hits by Littleton and Marcum anchored the winner's seven-hit attack. Caproco scored two runs in the first to grab an early lead and added to the margin with five runs in the second and nine in the third.

Gardner and Marcum went two for three at the plate for Caproco and scored three runs each.

Sealtest put only three runs on the board and these were in the final two innings. Hart blasted the only Sealtest hit in the game, a double in the final inning.

Hurley collected the win for Caproco and Green was tagged with the loss.

Two doubles from both Bridger, Turner, and Russell anchored Ziegenhorn's 21-hit barrage in the 46-1 Caproco win over Ryan Construction. Ziegenhorn's first six batters each crossed home plate at least five times, and the first six sticks accounted for 18 of the team's safeties. Sellers belted the games only home run, a two run shot in the second.

Ryan's Couch and Tisdale collected the team's only hits. Springs scored Tyan's only run, in the first.

Ivie was the winner for Ziegenhorn. Gardner suffered the loss for Tyan. Scoring:

Musial League

Rotary and Malone and Hyde were winners in the Musial baseball league last night at Farris Field.

Rotary skipped past the Sikeston Standard, 6-4, in the first game and Malone and Hyde remained unbeaten with its 28-1 decision over Todd Laundry.

The Standard outhit Rotary, 13-9, but still fell victim to Rotary's six-run total. Both teams scored three runs in the final inning with the printers final rally halting with the tying runs stranded on base.

Longstreet and Beach collected two hits apiece for Rotary. Ross and Throop scored two runs each in the game. Lloyd Holloway was on the mound for Rotary and worked the game for the win.

Northcott belted two doubles and a single to pace the printers' 13-hit barrage. Teammates Love, Blow, and Beaudean belted two hits each. Blow and Tate tagged triples for Standard. Barry Love worked the mound for the Standard and received the loss.

Malone and Hyde remained in its division's top spot.

Malone and Hyde connected for 12 hits, including two doubles from Hampton and Heavener and doubles from Beebe, Alberts, and Watson. Beebe, Heavener, Watson, Hampton, and Alberts each smashed two hits apiece in the game for malone and Hyde.

Mark Alberts handled the pitching chores for M & H and picked up the two-hit victory.

Todd Laundry's John Adams spoiled Malone and Hyde's chances at the no-hit win with two hits, a single and a triple. Williams was the losing hurler.

Pitchers Star

What do Dave McNally and Jim Slaton have in common?

Well, not much really. After all, McNally has been pitching for the Baltimore Orioles for 10 seasons while Slaton wasn't even in the major league when this one began.

But they both had the opposition in the palms of their hands Thursday as they tossed fourhitters, McNally stopping Washington 6-1 at night and Slaton carrying the Milwaukee Brewers to a 6-0 blanking of California in a day game.

In the only other American League night game on the abbreviated schedule, Detroit silenced Cleveland 3-0. Oakland's game at Minnesota was rained out.

In National League action, Los Angeles ripped St. Louis 11-4, the New York Mets nipped Montreal 2-1 and Philadelphia clipped Cincinnati 3-1 in 10 innings.

McNally's 12th triumph of the year against just four setbacks put him second only to Oakland's 15-game winner Vida Blue in major league victories. Slaton, 2-1, was rewarded with his first complete game and first shutout in the majors.

The Baltimore left-hander got all the runs he needed in the first inning as Don Buford crashed a leadoff homer and Brooks Robinson followed walks to Boog Powell and Frank Robinson with a single for the first of his three runs batted in.

Brooks also lofted a basesloaded sacrifice fly in the third and singled in a run home in the fifth, then took second on a walk and scored himself when Andy Etchebarren, grounding into a forceout, kept the Senators busy on a rundown play between first and second.

The victory was the Orioles' 20th in 25 games and kept them 6½ games ahead of Detroit in the American League East.

The Brewers staked Slaton to a five-run lead in the fourth inning and the young hurled protected with a two-hitter until the Angels opened the eighth with a pair of singles. But a foreceout and Tony Gonzalez' double play grounder got him out of danger.

Tommy Harper ignited the Brewers' outburst with their first hit off Clyde Wright, 7-7. A walk and Andy Kosco's single broke the scoreless duel and, after another walk, Dave May smacked a three-run double, then scored on Slaton's infield single when catcher Jeff Torborg dropped the throw to the plate.

Mickey Lolich scattered eight hits and fanned 11 Cleveland batters as the Tigers slipped past idle Boston into second place in the East Division.

Singles by Dick McAuliffe and Mickey Stanley and Norm Cash's sacrifice fly produced a first-inning run and Detroit capped the scoring in the seventh on Aurelio Rodriguez' double, Gene Lamont's single, Lolich's sacrifice and McAuliffe's single.

NBA Relaxes College Rule

BOSTON (AP) — A sports war between the National Basketball Association and the NCAA appeared imminent today with the NBA's relaxing of a so-called "four year rule" to permit hardship case collegians to join the pro ranks.

"It looks as if the NBA is declaring all-out war against colleges," said University of Massachusetts coach Jack Leaman, who recently lost junior Julius Erving to the American Basketball Association.

"The colleges have been a free minor league system for pro basketball, but maybe now things will change," Leaman said.

The NBA long has held it would not sign a player until after his class has graduated. However, in the face of a recent court ruling and actions by the rival ABA, the board of governors revised the league rule Thursday at the windup of annual league meetings.

Under the rule change, a college player who has not completed his education may request permission for NBA draft eligibility. The player must prove he is a hardship case based on what NBA President J. Walter Kennedy called "financial condition, his family, his academic record or lack of it, and his ability to obtain employment in another field."

Yankee's Lose All-Star Game

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)– The International League All-Stars pounded three Yankee pitchers for 17 hits, then held on to defeat New York 15-13 Thursday night in the 15th annual IL All-Star game.

A crowd of 11,001 saw the Stars slam three home runs, then take a 15-7 lead. But the Yankees struck back and had the tying runs on base when the game ended.

Left-hander Bill Rohr of Tidewater was the winning pitcher. He pitched a scoreless fifth inning. In the bottom of that inning, Dave McDonald of Winnipeg hit a home-run to break a 7-7 tie. The blow came off right-hander Jim Hardin, who was also clipped for a three-run home run by George Pena of Syracuse.

Pena drove in five runs, with a home run, single and double, and was voted the most valuable player in the game. His RBI total broke an All-Star game record. Other home runs were hit by Bobbie Grich of Rochester for the All-Stars and Bobbie Murcer and Jake Gibbs for New York.

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Twins Monday signed three of their choices from the free agent draft.

Signed were pitchers Marty Hulse and Reggie Row and third baseman Frank Suarez.

Cuban Church Life Holding On

NEW YORK (AP) — Church life seems to be holding its own in Cuba, and even gaining ground in some cases, although under heavy restrictions of Fidel Castro's Marxist-Socialist government.

This is the general picture that emerges from recent reports of churchmen from that island nation or visitors to it.

"Either there is an increased freedom, or the church is just now becoming uninhibited enough to discover the freedoms that it has had," says Joyce Hill, a United Methodist missions official, after a 17-day Cuban visit.

From town to town, she said, "church meetings were held without any difficulty from local authorities," although she heard accounts of some instances of individual harassment and attacks on pastors in small villages.

In a similar vein, two Chilean Roman Catholic bishops, who made a fact-finding tour of Cuba, report that the Church there is "the only institution of the past that has survived the revolution."

They say that despite the rigid limitations imposed on it, and the distrust between the Castro regime and Christians, "the parish communities are stronger now, with more lay participation."

"Christians in Cuba can go to church—that is not the problem," says Auxiliary Bishop Bernando Ariztia of Santiago. But he adds that the Christian message is restricted to the churches, and can't be preached outside them in public places.

"It is impossible for a group of Christians to meet in a private place or at home for discussion," he says. "There are small parish communities, but they must meet in the church or the rectory."

Although the Catholic bishops say that baptisms now are down about half from preveolution figures two Cuban Baptist leaders report that baptisms, membership and contributions have risen in the decade since Castro took over.

The two Baptists, the Revs. Manuel Salem and Humberto Donguez, both of Havana, told a recent meeting of European Baptist leaders in Switzerland that most Cuban pastors who had been imprisoned have been released and have resumed preaching.

Miss Hill, executive secretary for Latin America of the World Division of the United Methodist Board of Missions, said there "appears to be a greater openness on the part of the government toward the church."

But she also cited cases in small towns of beatings of parish priests and vandalism against church property.

Methodism, she adds, is not growing numerically, since some members are leaving the Church, but others are coming in to take their places, maintaining membership at a steady level.

The POWER of FAITH

BY WOODI ISHMAEL

Lew Anderson is a talented composer, musician and arranger. He has successfully worked in every area of popular and contemporary music. Since 1964, he has given his talents as director and arranger to a volunteer choral group in Larchmont, N.Y., known as the Musicommuters, a group of 65 dedicated people who love to sing, for good causes.

Recently, at the suggestion of Anderson's minister, he composed the music and lyrics to what is called "A New Sound of the Testaments." It is in five parts: Genesis, God So Loved the World, Noah, The Twenty-Third Psalm, and Exodus. It is a stirring and inspiring experience of worship. The chorus is accompanied by a combo of electric organ, guitar, bass and drums. The sound goes from Bach to rock and back.

Anderson has not only inspired his chorus to new heights but also his audiences. His "A New Sound of the Testaments" has given a new and contemporary dimension to the scriptures and old and young alike come away from each performance with a revived faith.

Rock Album To Be Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— The rock opera and album "Jesus Christ Superstar," which portrays the last seven days in the life of Jesus Christ is being made into a movie, Broadway show and concert attraction.

The stage version of "Superstar" is slated for an October opening in New York and the first concert for July 14-15 in Asbury Park, N.J. and later for college audiences, according to Ned Tanen, vice president of Music Corporation of America Inc.

He said MCA and the Robert Stigwood Organization of London signed for the adaptation of the popular album. The Stigwood organization will produce the stage version and both companies will produce the concert tour.

Universal Studios will produce the motion picture.

Crusade for Religion in Public Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)— A Washington woman has embarked on a crusade to get religion back in the public schools because, she said, "without knowledge of religion you cannot understand English literature, Middle East history and the arts."

Mrs. Ella Harllee, founder and president of the Educational Communications Association, said there is a growing demand by students and parents to bring the Bible back into the classroom for objective study.

Nearly a decade after the Supreme Court's ruling banning prayer in the public school, the National Education Association in a special report observed "...many schoolmen thought they had to throw out the Bible even as a literary resource."

As the court's ruling became clearer, the NEA said, schools learned that the court encouraged objective instruction about religion. A survey in 1970 disclosed that one-half the nation's larger high schools offer courses in religion.

Justice Tom Clark in June 1963 wrote: "It might well be said that one's education is not complete without a study of comparative religion or the history of religion and its relationship to the advancement of civilization....Nothing we have said here indicates that such study...when presented objectively as part of a secular program of education, may not be effected consistent with the First Amendment."

In her current desire to see religion taught objectively in the public schools, Miss Harllee said in an interview, "We are seeking knowledge for the students, not indoctrination."

Board Message

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)— A group of Little Rock Presbyterians has chosen a billboard on which to convey ideological and political messages.

The Rev. Francis Wellford Hobbie, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, put up a billboard last month reading: "Dear Mom and Dad, Your Silence is Killing Me...in Southeast Asia, at home on campus."

He said the purpose was to awake the adult Little Rock community to the problems and to get their reactions.

Altar Girls Shatter Boys Only Tradition

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Four altar girls have begun serving at St. Matthias Roman Catholic Church in suburban Bala, shattering a boys only tradition.

Donning brilliant red skull caps and cassocks and white surplices, the girls began assisting priests at the altar during Masses, a duty the church once said only men and boys could perform.

"I just didn't think it was fair for the boys to do it alone," said Regina Durante, 14, whose classmates credit her with instigating the drive for altar girls.

Three other eighth-grade girls who serve with her are Cathy Herold, 14, Lee Ann Kieser, 14, and Marion Schreiber, 13.

"We are seeking a quiet acceptance," said Msgr. John J. Noone, the pastor, as the girls started their duties to the 4,000 parishioners without fanfare or announcements.

"It is a delicate situation at the moment," Msgr. Noone said.

The Archdiocese of Philadelphia has no stated policy on the use of altar girls. Although aware of developments at St. Matthias, the archdiocese considers it a decision by the local pastor.

A spokesman said that no other church in the diocese has altar girls, but girls have served in the same capacity in some other sections of the country.

Thomas Kelly, 13, an altar boy said, "It's all right to have girls. I don't have any objections, but some of the boys seriously object. They say that if they can serve Mass, then why can't they be drafted?"

Corner On Questions

QUESTION: HAS RED CHINA BECOME A FRIEND?

ANSWER: In 1941 propaganda united Hitler, Mussolini, and Stalin on every communication level. Suddenly Stalin was removed from the unholy trinity and the billboards presented comrades Roosevelt, Churchill, and Stalin. Sincere minds searched vainly for justification for the switcheroo...neither repentance nor regret manifested itself. Can an enemy really be a friend?

Today's repercussions often expose yesterday's heroes. Those who should most embrace principle too frequently bow to human greed and personal gratification. What a tragedy that images are promoted rather than produced. If history improperly places its characters, God will not! Scripture teaches: "Be sure your sin will find you out."

Strange! that men who burn draft cards, destroy property, and commit insurrection remain unprosecuted, while men like Lt. Calley are besmirched and condemned. Wild! that the news media attributes economic failure to conservativism when government has neither been predominantly nor consistantly anything; however, here comes the fantastic! Because Red-China decides it is ready to feast on fatness, does kindness to a few ping-pongers and news-managers justfiy expediting visas, relaxing currency controls, carrying cargoes, and trading products with the communist butchers? Are Americans to forget Chiang-Kai-shek, American prisoners, and Chinese aid to enemies among other atrocities?

To "turn-off" the "Light of the World," is noless fatal than to ignore history. Jesus said: "He that is not for Me is against Me." As unchangeable as the sunrise, an enemy is not a friend. Conversley, a friend is no enemy. Jesus proved His friendliness---"He was wounded for OUR transgressions, He was bruised for OUR iniquities: the chastisement of OUR peace was upon Him; and with His stripes We are healed." While pinkos and reparations and Reds repent of nothing, Jesus gives redemption to every broken-hearted sinner. God promises: "The blood of Jesus Christ God's Son cleanseth us from all sin."

(Bethel Baptist Chuch, Dearborn Heights, Michigan).

Q—In Christian art, what is the interpretation of Jacob's Ladder?

A—Jacob's Ladder is the symbol of reuniting earth to heaven through Christ.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

"WHY ME?"

AND

"HOW, LORD?"

Moses had two big questions, and God answered them both. First he asked, "Why me?" and the Lord said, "Because I have chosen you." Then he wanted to know "how," and the Lord answered, "Do what I tell you, and I will show you how." Whether getting the people out of Egypt or providing for them in the wilderness, God had the means if Moses could only show an obedient faith.

When believers are moved by the Spirit to speak to others about Christ, they sometimes say with Moses, "Why me?" The question, "Why NOT me?" is more appropriate. It puts the burden for an answer on me instead of on God. It recognizes the sovereignty of God in my life as His child. It admits the wisdom of God in directing all evangelistic effort. It eliminates the flimsy excuses which are unbecoming and unrealistic for Christians. It confirms God's work of grace within us.

Trying to get the "how" worked out shows our lack of faith in God. Moses wanted to know how the Lord would provide meat for the Israelites (Numbers 11:22), and Nicodemus asked how a man could be born being old (John 3:4). They even suggested solutions which were both unreasonable and irrelevant. Laboring over how to witness or how the Spirit might use it is downright riduculous! Just to do it . . . and leave the "how" to God.

" HOPE BEYOND TRAGEDY"

Hardin Predicts Food Price Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — According to Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin higher food prices are likely—but he hopes they may even be welcomed by thoughtful housewives.

He thinks also that farm subsidies are going to be around for years. And he figures President Nixon will be at least as popular among farmer-voters in 1972 as he was in 1968.

Making these assessments in an interview, Hardin said higher food prices are one way to help farmers get a larger share of the nation's income. And he added that comsuers will go along once they understand that current price structures hurt farmers.

As to a quick end to government farm subsidies, forget it.

Those will be around at least until 1976 and maybe longer if administration hopes fade for a "market-oriented" agricultural economy.

Asked about Nixon's political standing with farmers, Hardin said the 1970 congressional elections did not generally involve administration farm policies.

In some farm-belt congressional elections last November, opponents said Nixon farm policies were reason for victories over Republican candidates.

Hardin did not debate the point but insisted that overriding local issues were more important generally than any actions undertaken by his department.

Q. Do you feel that the President will be a strong with farmers as he was in 1968?

A. I really think he will be.

Q. Do you look forward to taking a personal role as a campaigner in '72?

A. I guess I'd have to answer that by saying that I would be available to do whatever the President and the party asked me to do. I would presume at this point that they would probably want to utilize me to some degree as they did in '70. But there have been no discussions.

Hardin said he personally enjoys political campaigning. He was a professor and head of the University of Nebraska until joining the Nixon Cabinet 30 months ago.

The Agricultural Act of 1970 has had a firly good reception among farmers, Hardin said. It basically continues price-support structures and payments on such crops as feed grain, cotton and wheat but removes the stiff acreage controls which were in previous farm laws.

Administration officials have consistently pointed to the new law as being more flexible for farmers. It also puts more emphasis on free markets rather than direct payments from the government, although the latter are retained in a scaled-down form.

"The most important thing is to get our inflation under control," Hardin said. "And strong efforts are being made to do this. I's been slowed down."

Farm exports, estimated now at a record $7.5 billion for the year ending June 30, are important and are continuing to expand. Farmers "understand and appreciate" this, Hardin said.

As to farm income between now and the 1972 election: "We're hoping that prices will improve a bit between now and then. There are certainly chances that they will," Hardin said.

Farm credit has been a problem but improvements are being made by Congress in laws governing Farmers Home Administration and the Farm Credit System of land banks and other cooperative lending agencies, he said.

Q. If higher farm prices are forthcoming, does this signal higher consumer food prices?

A. I feel so long as we have a situation ... when the rate of return for capital and labor is lower on the farm than it is in other parts of the economy, that we've got to do everything we can to improve farm income, and that means improved prices ... and if this means some higher prices at retail, as it probably would, I think the consuming public in this country would support it, particularly if they understood the full picture, that farmers are really being hurt by the current price structure.

Hardin said the chance of corn blight occurring this year does not pose a great threat to the American food supply.

If blight is no worse than last year when it was the main contributor to a 15 per cent cut in yields, there will be plenty of corn and no impact on food prices at all, Hardin said.

If blight is far worse, he said, a shorter crop would "undoubtedly affect the supply of livestock"

The end of a 21-year trade ban with Red China and the dumping of a requirement for shipping grain to the Soviet Union in at least 50 per cent U.S. ships is a step in the right direction but is impossible to translate into effects on farm exports at this time, Hardin said.

Hardin says thaSemespite a continuing trend in Congress to urban membership and orientation he feels farmers are getting a fair shake on Capitol Hill.

"I haven't sensed that there's really an unwillingness in Congress .... to deal with the special problems of agriculture," Hardin said.

"People made statements that there was no longer interest in a farm program, but there was. That was passed.

During the development of the Agricultural Act of 1970, Hardin and other administration farm officials said the new market-oriented features were a step away from the more rigid programs of the past.

Critics have said the new law is a step toward phasing out all government crop payments. Hardin does not acknowledge such a goal.

The payment operations, even under the new law, are expected to cost around $3 billion this year.

"We haven't yet harvested a crop under the new farm programs," Hardin said. Then, referring to a question on whether payments will eventually end, he said:

"I just don't think we can make that kind of prediction ... I feel, as I've said many times, that until there is a substantial change in farm income from the market can we eliminate farm payments.

"My major concern has been to give the markets a chance to operate freely and the payments be made in a manner that didn't interfere with them."

Hardin said he does not expect payments to be eliminated before 1976.

There has been speculation on how soon President Nixon might appoint a White House farm adviser. Hardin said he felt the plan still is under consideration.

Four Charged With Sodomy

BLOOMFIELD — Four inmates of the Stoddard County jail have been charged with sodomy in connection with assaults which began around June 12. Discovery of the crimes was made by a sheriff's deputy Saturday.

Charges on three counts have been filed against Danny Wayne Deberry, 20, of Bloomfield, Floyd Dean Handley, 20, of Bernie, and Bobby Tyrone Griffith, 20, of Dexter. William Earl Vandiver, 22, of Bernie, faces four charges on the same offense. They are to appear Friday in Magistrate Court.

According to Sheriff Edsel Edwards, the four have been separated from the rest of the prisoners by placing two in each of two cells. There are not enough cells to isolate each prisoner individually.

Q—Has any U.S. president been an only child?

A—No.

Two Arrests For Stoddard

James Hopper, 22, and Charlie Burnett, 27, both of Bell City, were picked up by police last night on a Stoddard county warrant on charges of burglary and stealing.

The pair were turned over to Stoddard county authorities.

One of the heroic exploits during the attack on Pearl Harbor was achieved by Dory Miller, a Negro Navy mess attendant, The World Almanac recalls. Miller had taken over an antiaircraft gun aboard the battleship Arizona and was credited with destroying four Japanese aircraft. He was awarded the Navy Cross by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

American Business Goes Abroad To Compete With Cheaper Goods

Editor's note: In the endless struggle to compete on equal terms with cheaper foreign goods, American business is setting up shop abroad in steadily growing numbers. The Following article, first of five examines this trend, and the monumental problems it poses for the nation.

WASHINGTON (AP) — American business is going multinational with a rush that matches the stampede to "go conglomerate" in the 1960s.

As the corporations go global, they carry American capital technology and managerial skill to the earth's far corners.

And leave alarm bells ringing back home.

Complaints are piling up that American jobs and possibly some vital portions of the nation's industrial base for defense and economic stability, are going overseas.

Organized labor which formerly carried the banner of free trade has taken alarm at vanishing jobs and shrinking memberships, and has joined some major industries in the drive on Congress for import quotas.

The unions, led by AFL-CIO, also are bracketing the multinationals in their barrage of criticism, as "runaway employers" who move plants to Europe, the Orient, or the Caribbean where labor is cheaper.

Ironically, competition from imported goods is the main reason many corporations have gone global. They are simply trying to stay competitive with foreign products by becomming importers themselves—of components, of semi-finished goods, or of entire products which come back to the U.S. consumer with only one American part, the brand name.

There are, however, many other reasons why U.S. industry is deploying subsidiaries overseas—to gain growth by reaching new customers, to get behind trade barriers that American exports cannot pierce, to cut costs and improve profits, to compete on even terms with foreign firms in world markets.

For the American consumer these are among the signs of the changing times:

—The Dodge Colt, one of the new American "answers" of business on a product line or "moving offshore," GE and others have gone offshore. That way, Borch estimates, at to the small-car imports, is 100 per cent made-in-Japan, by Mitsubishi.

—If you buy Ford's Pinto, another of the U.S. industry's answers, you may get a car with an English-made engine and German-made transmission assembled either in Canada or the United States.

—Ninety per cent of all radio sets, tape recorders and cassettes sold in this country are made abroad. So are more than half the black-and-white color television sets, nearly onefourth of all colot TV sets, two -thirds of the sewing machines and most of the typewriters.

A major industrialist, Board Chairman Fred J. Borch of General Electric, told the Associated Press: "I don't know any American manufacturer who would not prefer to make his product in this country for this market."

But in cases where the choice became either going out least half the American employes are kept on the job—designers, engineers, sales force research and development people and others.

Pakistanis-Bengalis Continue Fight

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP)— Medical sources estimate that about 50 Pakistani soldiers are being wounded or killed daily in fighting that continues between the army and East Pakistan's rebellious Bengalis.

The sources said the army hospital in Dacca gets 15 to 20 seriously wounded soldiers daily from the combat along the province's borders with India. The other casualties reportedly go to hospitals in Jessore and Bogra.

Early Tuesday explosions shook the eastern part of this provincial capital shortly after the arrival of the first batch of foreign newsmen. There were no reports of damage or casualties.

Pakistani sources said the blasts were the first since Friday night. They said explosions have continued in Dacca since the army suppressed the Awami league led by Sheik Mujibur Rahman. The league is East Pakistan's majority party.

clean the air electrically!
Growing concern about air pollution has created new interest in ways to clean the air inside our homes. For this reason, several electrical devices are rapidly gaining in popularity.
Window air conditioners are being installed for their air cleaning ability, as well as air cooling. With air conditioners, doors and windows may be closed in summer, keeping out dust, dirt, pollen and other outside pollutants. Indoor air is also cleaned by the air conditioner filter, which removes much of the cigarette smoke, lint and other impurities from the air. Central air conditioning does an even better job of cleansing inside air. And a good tip for any type of air conditioning equipment is to change filters often.
A tremendous break-through in indoor air cleaning is the electronic air cleaner. This remarkable device removes even very tiny particles from the air electronically. It can remove dust, dirt, lint, smoke, bacteria and up to 99% of the pollen.
This electronic unit may be installed on conventional central heating or air conditioning systems. Several portable and console models are also available that may be used in any room.
If you want more information on how electric equipment cleans the air, call us or your heating and air conditioning dealer.

Kidnapping Charges Dismissed

TULSA (AP)— Federal kidnapping charges have been dismissed against David Emmett Mitchell, a Texas man arrested in Miami, Okla., in 1968 and later charged with the slaying of a Dallas motel clerk.

Mitchell is to be released from custody in the mental ward of the medical center at Springfield, Mo., and placed in a state mental institution at Rush, Tex.

If his mental condition improves so he can assist in his own defense, he will face charges of robbery and murder in Dallas.

The charges came after the body of George D. Hooper, 49, Dallas night clerk at a motel, was found packed in ice in Miami.

Officials arrested Mitchell and Letha Faye Hohenberger, then 29, at Miami. They pleaded guilty to kidnaping Hooper. Mitchell was given a life sentence and Miss Hohenberger was sentenced to 50 years in federal prison. She will remain in custody in Ohio.

U.S. Dist. Judge Allen E. Barrow dismissed the kidnapping charges. A federal prisoner cannot be placed in a state mental hospital as long as a federal charge or sentence is pending.

Couple Regains Custody Of Adopted Baby Lenore

MIAMI (AP) — A Florida judge has ruled that Nicholas and Jean DeMartino, who abandoned their Brooklyn home after New York courts said they had to return their adopted daughter Lenore, may keep custody of her.

"Dear God, we won," Nicholas DeMartino cried when Dade County Circuit Judge Ralph Cullen ruled Tuesday that the DeMartinos could keep Lenore.

Jean DeMartino hugged their Miami attorney, William Colson. She and her husband wept openly with joy.

Sitting just a few feet away Olga Scarpetta also broke into tears. Her child was not her own.

Miss Scarpetta, 33, put the child up for adoption with a New York agency four days after Lenore's birth on May 1 1970. The DeMartinos, then living in Brooklyn, took custody of the infant four weeks later.

Mis Scarpetta, a Colombian native now working as a secretary in New York, later tried to get Lenore back. The adoption agency refused but lost the fight in court.

The DeMartinos fled to Florida with Lenore and their 4year-old adopted daughter, Linda, last month. They said they plan to stay.

Miss Scarpetta's attorneys said they would appeal Cullen's decision even though the DeMartinos said if Lenore were to demonstrate she wanted to see her natural mother, they would agree to it.

Cullen said he decided to deny Miss Scarpetta's Florida suit "in view of all the time, evidence and the DeMartinos' good reputation."

DeMartino, an attorney, and his wife still face contempt of court charges in New York.

Arkansas And Oklahoma Dispute Tract of Land

POTEAU, Okla. (AP)— If LeFlore County Assessor Rubin White can convince Atty. Gen. Larry Derryberry, a 49-year-old dispute between Oklahoma and Arkansas may soon be revived.

The dispute is over a 130-acre triangular shaped piece of land which, according to the maps, is inside Arkansas. White says the land belongs to Oklahoma and his county.

The section, known as Coke Hill, gained law enforcement services from Fort Smith, Ark., in 1904 at the request of the Choctaw Indians.

White said "The Indians gave them the power to enforce laws. They did not give them the deed to the land."

The Arkansas legislature annexed the land in 1905 and the annexation was approved by Congress.

But in 1907, when Oklahoma became a state, the state constitution claimed Coke Hill.

A rumored Poteau River navigation channel, which would run through Coke Hill, has made the land more valuable.

White is asking Derryberry to determine its ownership.

"We are not trying to take away anyone's land," says Oklahoma Asst. Atty. Gen. Odie Nance, who inspected the site last month. "We just want to know which state should exercise governmental domain."

Astronauts And Cosmonauts May Enter Joint Program

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — American and Soviet spacemen could link up in space within three to six years if discussions currently under way here are brought to fruition, it was learned Wednesday.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials announced that American and Soviet space experts discussing compatible spacecraft docking systems here are actively studying the possibility of testing the compatible system using existing spacecraft of the two nations.

A source indicated that this could mean a joint AmericanSoviet space flight as early as 1973 and certainly within the mid-70s.

The surprise announcement released Wednesday stated that the U.S. and Soviet delegations "discussed the possibility of future space flights which would test the requirements being developed for compatible docking systems.

"Such flight experiments might be conducted between spacecraft of the Apollo and Salyut station types and between spacecraft of the Soyuz and Skylab station types. It was agreed that the technical and economic implications of these possibilities should be studied by the two sides," the announcement said.

Apollo is the spacecraft system now being used by America to explore the moon. Skylab is an orbiting space station which NASA plans to launch in 1973. Salyut is a Russian orbiting space station now flying and manned by three cosmonauts. Soyuz is the Soviet command ship type of craft used to ferry men to and from the Salyut.

Observers said that docking mechanisms now on these types of spacecraft possibly could be modified so that they could be linked in space. If such modification is carried out, the two countries could dock spacecraft in orbit much earlier than if totally new docking systems had to be developed.

The 19-member Soviet delegation arrived here Sunday night and discussions began on Monday. It was the second meeting between the U.S. and Soviet experts. They met last October in Moscow to lay the groundwork for the session here.

American Folk Art On Public Display

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major collection of primitive American folk art, rescued more than six years ago from the Washington slum warehouse where a government laborer toiled on it for 14 years, goes on public display for the first time Sunday.

Its title: "Throne of the Third Heaven of the Nations' Millennium General Assembly."

A 30-by-16-foot gallery at the National Collection of Fine Arts is crammed almost to overflowing with the work: the crowning life effort of James Hampton, a black laborer, to construct a church's entire ecclesiastical appointments.

Glittery is the word for what Harry Lowe, curator of exhibition and design at the National Collection, calls "clearly a fine example of American folk art."

Throne-like chairs, altars, tables—all are covered with intricate layers of foil in gilt and silver. Constructed of wood and cardboard, the work is dotted with hundreds of burned-out lightbulbs, again covered with foil. Angel wings abound, built up of intricate layers of cardboard, covered in foil.

Dominating the display of 30 major works is a throne, more than seven feet tall, crowned with the words "Fear Not" in letters covered with aluminum foil.

Little is known about the artist except that he worked for the General Services Administration; and that for 14 years he paid out $50 a month rent on a cold brick warehouse in a slum area alley wi thin sigh of the Capitol to work on his creation.

Hampton died in November 1964 at the age of 53, leaving no clue to the vision which led him to put in untold hours on the "Throne of the third Heaven ..."

A coincidence led to saving his work from the trash heap. A month after Hampton's death, The Washington Post printed a story about "the strange legacy of a lonely man." A London paper picked up a similar story and a friend sent a clipping to Lowe, who had just come from the Tennessee Fine Arts Center at Nashville, along with a facetious note which, as Lowe recalls, said something like:r"I suppose that in your new job you will be acquiring works like this."

Thus learning of the creation, Lowe went to see it, decided it was indeed worth acquiring, and raised the money to buy it—largely a matter of paying back rent on the warehouse.

The work has been in storage since it was salvaged in January 1965.

He said bids to display the work have come from the Walker Art Center in Milwaukee, titeney Museum and the Museum of Contemporary Crafts in New York City, but no decision has been made as to whether it will travel.

Some wall plaques included in the display are in English, but others are printed in a sort of cabalistic script which no one has been able to decipher. Notebrooks and loose papers found in the warehouse contain hundreds of pages of the same script.

Inscriptions on the plaques which are in English, with Hampton's spelling intact, read:

"This is true that Adam the first man God created appeared in person on January 20, 1949 this was on the day of President Truman's inauguration.

"It is true that on October 2, 1946 the Great Virgin Mary and the Star of Bethlehem appeared over the nations capital.

"This is true that the Great Moses the giver of the ten commandments appeared in Washington April 11, 1931.

"And God spake all these words saying I am the Lord thy God which have brought three out of the land of Moses."

The mountainous terrain of the island city has resulted in numerous "ladder streets," actually steep flights of stairs which make picturesque scenes for tourists but also serve as very practical communications arteries for Hong Kong's millions.

Drug Addiction Replaces Alcoholism As T.V.'s Favorite Health Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — Alcoholism seems to have been pushed to the back of a high television shelf since the dramatic emergence of the problem of widespread narcotics addiction.

ABC sought Wednesday night—regretfully without much originality—to return the spotlight to what narrator Frank Reynolds called the nation's number one health problem.

Many of statistics were tossed into the hour. There are an estimated nine million alcoholics in the nation; 26,000 died last year in accidents related to excessive drinking; there are probably two or three alcoholics in every city block, most of them undiscovered and untreated.

Although much has been written and spoken about what one medical specialist called "a chronic disease," there is still a social stigma connected with it, with the result that vast numbers of sufferers are never revealed and, consequently, fail to receive help and treatment in time.

The alcoholic and his problem to himself, family and employer, have been under study for almost half a century. While the cause of this type of addiction is still unknown, it can be arrested, but only by the victim himself.

ABC covered a lot of familiar territory in TV's standard documentary form. There was the "non-drinking alcoholic"—a nurse—describing her days as an "obsessive, compulsive drinker" to a group therapy gathering of fellow sufferers. There were the shots taken in a hospital showing older men, some derelicts from the nation's skid rows, whose health and often mental capacity had been destroyed by alcohol.

CBS and Walter Cronkite achieved an exclusive interview with the elusive Daniel Ellsberg, Massachusetts Institute of Technology research expert widely credited with turning over the so-called "Pentagon papers" to journalistic sources.

Ellsberg, in a taped interview at an undisclosed location, refused to talk about his own part, if any, in starting the battled between government and press.

He spoke long and soberly about his concern about Vietnam and about his own feeling of American leaders' responsibilities and the public's right to know.

Portions were shown on the early evening news program and in greater detail during a hastily scheduled half-hour special in the late evening.

Malden Man Wins $1,500 Bowling Prize

MALDEN — Bob McDonald of Malden took first place in the 10th annual Bob Allen's Singles Classic held this month at Benton, Ill. He has been bowling in the tournament for several years.

McDonald scored a total of 1347 pins in a six -game series bowled on June 6 to take first place honors. Second place went to Ray Meadows of Carbondale, Ill. with a total of 1326 pins.

More than 1,000 bowlers from the six states of Indiana, Kentucky, Arkansas, Tennessee and Missouri took part in the elimination tournament.

McDonald, who is sponsored locally by Laniers Jewelry, Malden State Bank and Rowe Ford Sales, won the championship trophy, valued at more than $200 and received a first place check for $1,500.00.

Guatamalan President Celebrates Anniversary Says Considerable Progress Has Been Made

GUATEMALA (AP) — President Carlos Arana Osorio celebrates his first anniversary in office July 1 and feels he has made "considerable progress" toward pacifying strife-torn Guatemala. But "complete results cannot be obtained in just one year," he added.

The president was interviewed Monday for the first time this year by a visiting foreign correspondent. He replied to written questions submitted in advance and also met with this correspondent.

The government considers that the so-called gurrillas are doomed, and the murders and other sporadic and isolated crimes which they commit are only for notoriety and to maintain a false front," Arana Osorio said. "What is left of the broken cells will be eliminated by action of the security forces."

Some estimates of the number of deaths from urban terrorism in the past year exceed 1,000. For more than six months Arana Osorio kept the country under a state of siege, suspending some constitutional guarantees as his security forces struggled to end the bloodshed. But almost daily another body is found on a back road, riddled with bullets, or another businessman is kidnaped.

The violence is blamed on extremits of both the left and right.

Osorio said the national development plan inaugurated by his government "has fulfilled the important function of promoting the socio-economic development of the country, and, at the same time, pushed the diversification of the private sector."

The plan includes the creation of a national development bank, an institute of agricultural commercialization and a national export center.

The president also said Guatemala will follow a more aggressive foreign trade policy. He said the reduction of Guatemala's quota in the U.S. sugar market is a blow to his plan to increase exports, but his government will try to offset this by consultations with out countries.

Nebraska Power Need To Cost $2 Billion For Next 15 Years

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — It will cost more than $2 billion to supply Nebraska's power needs for the next 15 years, a spokesman for the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) said Wednesday.

"In order to meet our responsibilities as a power district we will have to satisfy this power need without undue risk to the environment," he added.

The estimate came from Ronald E. Reder, director of generation engineering for NPPD in a presentation prepared for the 165th meeting of the Missouri Basin Inter Agency Committee, a body made up of representatives of states and federal agencies involved in the overall development of the Missouri River Basin.

Reder and Bob Wicina of the Omaha ,ublic Power District, which like NPPD is constructing a nuclear power plant in Nebraska, told the basin developers nuclear power is the most econo... of supplying power for the future, and they said safeguarding the environment is inherent in th...

"Hydrocarbon fuels ... known but limited supply," Reder said. "Hydroelectric is a most fully developed, an... of the nuclear fuel cycle is only beginning to come into view."

Fuel availability is tied to implementing air quality standards, he continued, and with fossil fuels in a supply crisis, "only reasonableness is needed in developing and setting regional air quality standards ... Unrealistic approaches to standard setting or expected equipment capability will be harmful to our fuel supply capabilities and will only aggravate an already troublesome area."

Wicina said the Omaha district has done extensive testing since 1967 in the Fort Calhoun area just above Omaha where it is constructing a 457,000 kilowatt nuclear plant and the district "is convinced that its Fort Calhoun Nuclear Power Station's radio-activity and thermal discharge will have no measureable or identifiable adverse effect on the environment."

NPPD's nuclear plant an 800 megawatt plant is near Brownville in southeast Nebraska. The net output will be about 778,500 kilowatts.

In a third presentation, Norman A. Berg, associate administrator of the Soil Conservation Service, described the Great Plains Conservation program as a pattern setter for regional development, which to date has involved more than 43,000 land owners and operators in more than 450 counties, working to protect 82.8 million acres of land under long term conservation contracts.

He said the program has demonstrated the value of comprehensive long range planning, of a complete management system, of effective means of putting land back to grass and of widespread application of new tools and technologies.

He said a study a few years ago of expired Great Plains contracts showed that about 90 per cent of the land owners were maintining conservation practices at the same level as under cost-share contracts.

The outmigrations from the Plains, he said 'would have been greater without the program's incentives for good managers to remain. The entire nation has a stake in seeing that this huge area continues to develop satisfactorily."

Water Pollution Board Calls Huston Hearing

HOUSTON, Mo. (AP) — An estimated 400 residents of the Big Piney River watershed area turned out at Houston Wednesday night to complain against those who have, as one resident put it, turned a clear Ozark stream into a cesspool.

The Missouri Water Pollution Board called the hearing.

Residents testified they wouldn't allow their children to swim in the river any more because of the pollution. Somen said they would no longer eat fish caught there. Farmers reported livestock dying and questioned whether pollution might have been involved.

Testimony before the board blamed the communities of Cabool and Houston, plus Ft. Leonard Wood for the major part of the pollution some was attributed to communities along tributaries that empty into the Big Piney.

There was criticism of the board itself. Some residents said it was not doing all it could to clean up the pollution.

Jack Smith, executive secretary of the board, said it has taken action based on existing laws and will continue to do so. But he said his organization is handicapped by lack of staff and money.

Maj. Gen. W. T. Bradley, commanding officer at the fort, said he was disturbed at misleading statements about the fort's role in the pollution. He said the post in in compliance with state water pollution standards. If the fort is at fault, he said, then the standards need to be revised and the fort will comply.

The watershed area comprises mainly Paulaski, Texas and Phelps counties.

Orientation Of Freshmen Begins in Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Southeast Missouri State College's summer orientation program for beginning freshmen and transfer students got under way this week and will continue through July 23.

Each evening, Sunday through Thursday, about 50 students and their parents will check into an air-conditioned, high-rise dormitory on the campus for the night and day program, which is coordinated by the dean of students' office.

During their visit to Southeast Missouri State both parents and students will hear talks covering all aspects of campus life by various college officials and will take an extensive tour of the campus.

Students will also confer with an academic advisor and decide upon the courses they will take during their first semester on the campus.

The program, while not unique to Southeast Missouri State, is nevertheless somewhat uncommon. Many colleges require their new students to arrive on the campus several days before the upperclassmen and put them through a "crash" orientation course.

This was the procedure followed at Southeast Missouri State until four years ago. Officials at the college feel, however, that the new approach is far superior.

It brings the new students to the campus in manageable groups and allows for individual attention. It involves the parents. It takes place at a time far less hectic than registration week in September. It allows time for the new students to absorb what they have learned about the college.

Several Southeast Missouri State students are employed as student leaders and parent hosts during the orientation period to supplement the college's regular staff.

The U.S. gold eagle was valued at $10 and was first minted in 1795. The eagle was nine-tenths pure gold after 1838.

Pageant at Palmyra

A spectacular attraction of the summer season is the Mormon Pageant on Hill Cumorah near Palmyra, N.Y., an annual event since 1937 which draws upwards of 100,000 visitors from throughout the nation. Scheduled this year July 26-31, the pageant recreates on 25 stages over an area larger than a football field the Mormon story of the destruction of an ancient American civilization.

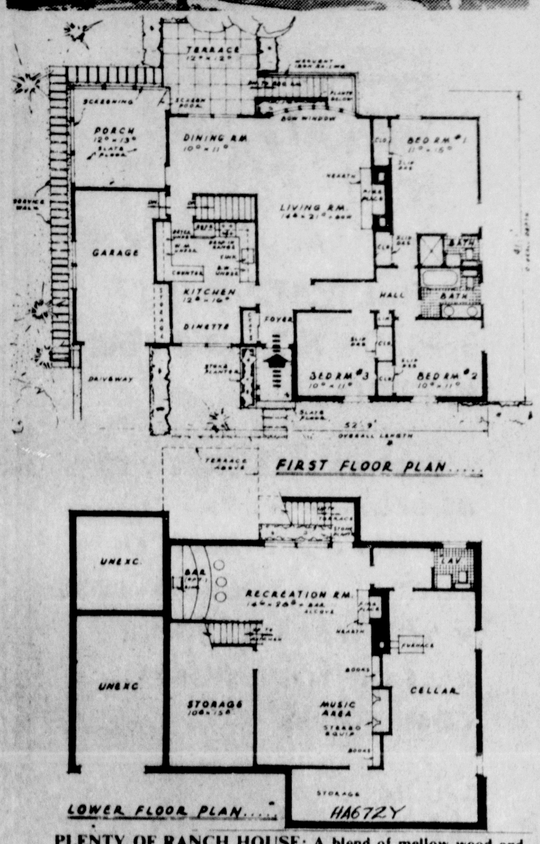
YOU CAN'T WIN 'em all, not even if you happen to be of that Argentine breed famed for horsemanship. A gaucho bites the dust during a rodeo, South American style, at Buenos Aires.



PLENTY OF RANCH HOUSE: A blend of mellow wood and rugged stone forms this attractive exterior. Two of three bedrooms have cross ventilation. Master bedroom has a private bath with enclosed shower. Family bath contains a double vanity sink. Raised hearth fireplace and a bow window feature a large living room. Dining room overlooks a terrace and has a door to a screened porch with slate floor. Compact kitchen provides a dinette and room for appliances. Lower level contains a recreation room, fireplace, lavatory and a music area with built in shelves. Plan HA672Y was designed by architect Herman H. York, 90-04 161st Street,

Paint Brush Politics Resumes China Trade

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Trade between the United States and Mainland China is resuming after a 20-year ban with shipments of paint brush bristles to New York and food delicacies to San Francisco's Chinatown.

The ban, imposed by the U.S. government on Dec. 17, 1950, during the Korean war, was lifted as of June 10.

The 166 cartons of foodstuffs, diverted and trucked here from Vancouver, B.C., were being uncrated today. They are expected to be on sale on Grant Avenue, in the heart of Chinatown, soon.

Included are dried watercress, pickled vegetables and ginger, lotus paste, cakes of fine po ni tea, dried melons, canned cuttle fish and dried dace—a tiny fish.

Customs Director George Brokaw said Wednesday he understands that the food shipment was a few days behind a cargo of pig bristles, used for paint brushes, which went through here to New York last week.

"We expect a lot more shipments," said Brokaw.

"After all, Chinatown here is the largest Chinese community in the Western Hemisphere, and they've run out of these things years ago.

"We assume that this shipment, which was in Vancouver, was intended for sale there— where it has been imported all along—and that some enterprising dealer figured he'd divert it here and begin reviving the old trade."

The Chinese community registered no excitement, apparently because in the past 20 years it has learned to use substitute items. Some of the substitutes are grown locally, others imported from Hong Kong, Taiwan and Japan.

"We don't need anything we haven't already got," said Cecilia Chiang, a Peking native who founded the Mandarin restaurant here 11 years ago.

Frazer Wu, a former Nationalist diplomat who has been operating the Huo Kuo House in Berkeley, for nearly a decade, agreed.

Hay Fever Can Wreck You

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Harold greeted the hay fever season by sneezin'. Unfortunately, he was behind the wheel of his car at the time and plowed into the rear of Hazel's slinky new convertible automobile.

As a result, Hazel richocheted around inside of her vehicle like a billiard ball. When she finally came to a halt, she looked like she had been dumped into a side pocket and sued Harold for her injuries.

"If he had been distracted by my good looks," complained Hazel in court, "I could understand why he hit me. But, he wasn't even looking at me at the time of the crash."

"I wasn't looking at anybody," was Harold's answer. "I was sneezing up a storm. And, while I was doing it, I didn't see Hazel slow down. Certainly, a person can't be held responsible for an involuntary act like sneezing?"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold hay fever sufferer Harold liable for Hazel's injuries?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the sneeze was not the cause of the accident; that it would never have occurred except for Harold's carelessness in failing to properly watch the road and control his car.

(Based upon a 1964 Oregon Supreme Court Decision)

The Prayer from The Upper Room

"I overthrew some of you, as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, and you were as a brand plucked out of the burning." (Amos 4:11, RSV)

PRAYER: Our Father, look in mercy on Thy creatures who seek forgiveness for their transgressions. May we never spurn Thy love, given to us through Thy beloved Son, Jesus Christ. Amen.

Senate Votes Draft Extension Charts Troop Withdrawal Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to extend the draft two more years, sweeten soldiers' pay $2.7 billion and chart a Indochina withdrawal plan disowned in advance by the White House.

But after seven weeks of debate the Senate's 71 to 16 approval Thursday of the draft extension bill may well be too late for Congress to finish final action before the present Selective Service Act expires next Wednesday midnight.

Some senators threaten a filibuster if a House-Senate conference kills or weakens an endthe-war amendment added by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

The Mansfield amendment calls for a phased withdrawal of U.S. troops over nine months if all U.S. prisoners of war are released. It is likely to receive a cool reception both in conference and on the House floor.

House antiwar forces never have mustered more than 158 congressmen to vote for any Vietnam withdrawal amendment.

The conference has more than a dozen differences to reconcile between the House and Senate versions of the bill. One of the most important as an amendment by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., which raised the military pay boost to the same level approved by the House, but spread most of it among lower ranks.

Some senators had hoped to kill the draft outright as a means of forcing the military to adopt the all-volunteer armed force concept now.

The Nixon administration hopes the increased pay can prepare for an all-volunteer force after June 30, 1973. It says the draft will be needed until it is proven better pay and conditions really can attract suitable volunteers.

The Senate bill does limit the number of men who can be drafted to 130,000 the first year and 140,000 the second. The Defense Department has indicated considerably less than those numbers will be required, unless there is a national emergency.

Among other major Senateadded provisions:

—Cut 100,000 men off the overall 2.5 million force level approved by the House.

—Retain the two-year period of alternative civilian service that must be served by conscientious objectors. The House voted for three years service.

—Require the military to train experts to treat an increasingly large number of men who become addicted to drugs while in service.

—Exempt from the draft persons in families that have lost a father, son or brother in combat.

—Grant new rights to persons appealing their draft status, such as the right to have an attorney present.

—Ask the President to appoint future members of local draft boards with an eye to the race, color and ethnic and religious characteristics of most of the men they process.

The pesticide carrier is made available to A. P. Green's customers, the agricultural chemical companies, who are inspected by the Department of Agriculture.

"They are not kidding," Clark stressed.

He said that the carrier manufactured at Oran is used for pesticides that are decomposed by rainwater in five to six weeks.

"They are systemic formulations which become part of the plant structure," Clark explained.

When the complete pesticide is applied to a corn crop, for example, the plant absorbs the poison, and the corn root worm dies when he bites into the plant.

Products of the Oran plant, the pesticide carrier, soil conditioning mulch, and cat litter, all related in composition, represent a departure from the type of products manufactured by other A. P. Green plants. Refractory materials for launch pads at Cape Kennedy were provided by the Mexico plant.

The company is a subsidiary of United States Gypsum, which has 19 plants in this country, and several overseas.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Unemployment, Dope, Despair Spell Another Hot Summer; State Department Put Curbs on Viet Reporters In 1962; Air Officer Asked To Resign, Then Fired For Quitting

Explosion, Quake Connection

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A state mining official says there could be some connection between the devastating Feb. 9 earthquake and a fiery natural methane gas explosion that ripped through an underground tunnel apparently killing 17 workers.

Dr. Gordon B. Oakeshott, deputy chief of the California Division of Mines and Geology, said the quake possibly could have disturbed underground formations and caused seepage of the deadly gas that exploded Thursday.

Seven bodies have been recovered and rescue teams continued to search for 10 missing workers. City fire rescue crews said dense smoke and debris hampered efforts to find the missing men. Conditions inside the tunnel were described as "untenable to support life."

The tunnel, being excavated as part of a water project, traverses foothills near the quake epicenter outside suburban Sylmar. The area is studded with oil wells. Fire officials said oil seepage doubtless helped fuel a 14-hour fire that followed the blast and blocked rescue attempts for more than 12 hours.

The sole survivor of the blast—wan, red-eyed and weakened by injuries—told reporters from his hospital bed that he thought he felt two explosions in the tunnel, which is five miles long and about 200 feet beneath the earth.

Judge Refuses Medina Motions

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP)— A military judge refused today to dismiss murder and assault charges against Capt. Ernest Medina, whose infantry company staged the My Lai assault in 1968.

Col. Kenneth Howard, the military judge, then said the case would go to trial, probably late this summer.

The judge set July 19 as the tentative date for the start of jury selection.

"I do not find this case to be pervaded by command influence," said the judge as he denied the defense dismissal motions.

"I do not find it was the over-all policy of the Army to deny the accused a fair consideration of the charges against him," ruled Howard.

The judge added, "I do not find that he was to be tried regardless of the evidence."

Howard denied a series of 16 separate defense motions made by defense attorney F. Lee Bailey and granted only two minor ones. etc.

He granted permission for the defense to obtain a copy of a classified report on a military inquiry into the My Lai massacre. He also ordered the prosectuion to provide the defense with the names of its witnesses. More than 100 have been subpoenaed, but the government has indicated that not all of them will be called.

Medina spoke briefly to newsmen afterward.

"I've been waiting almost two and a half years for this to go to trial," said the oliveskinned captain.

"I'm glad we have a trial date. "I still have confidence I'll be found innocent."

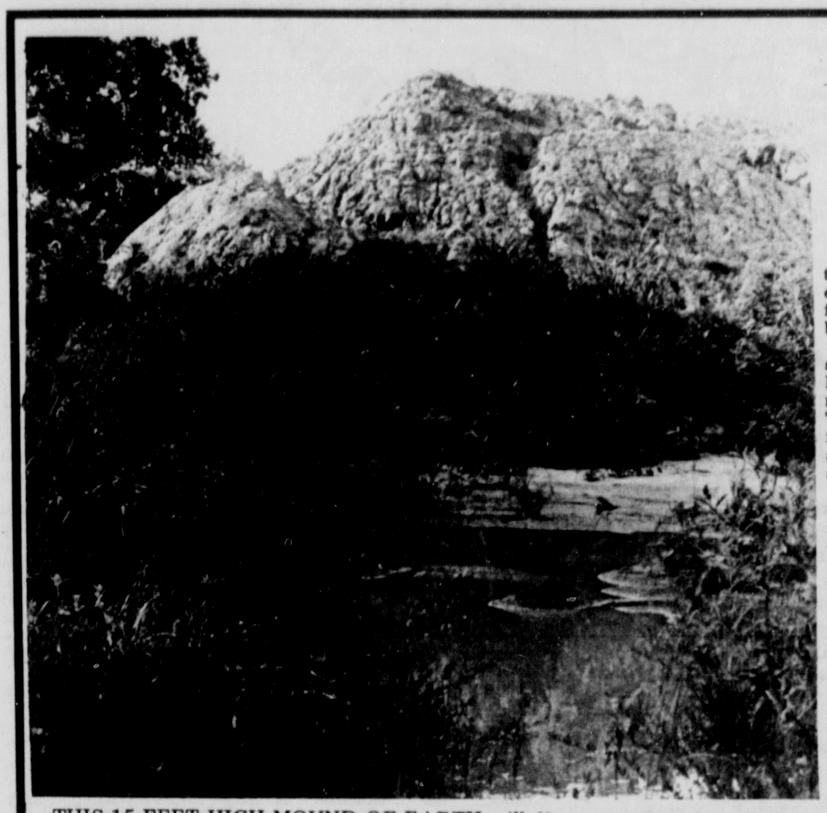
Ten witnesses, including two generals, testified in the course of the six-day proceedings.

Bailey's complex motions charge that all of the officers involved in the investigation and charging of Medina were influenced by pressures improperly applied by the Department of the Army. Such pressure is known as command influence in the military. He argued that charges against Medina should be dismissed because of such influence.

Bailey has argued that before Medina was even formally investigated, the Army decided he must be tried regardless of what the evidence might show.

Bailey charged that Army bias against Medina became clearly evident in two developments. The developments, Bailey said, were the Army's decision not to allow Medina to testify for the government at the trial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. and rejection of defense evidence during an Army investigation of the case.

Bailey said that in the normal course of events, the Army immediately would have produced Medina to answer Calley's testimony.



THIS 15-FEET HIGH MOUND OF EARTH will disappear when the A.P. Green Co. finishes mining on the site south of Benton. The company plans to reclaim the land.

Contour of Reclaimed Land Will be Rolling

By JUDY STROUP

BENTON — It will be some time before the mounds of earth adjacent to Highway 61 four miles south of Benton will be removed from view.

The earth is overburdened, scraped away by A. P. Green Refractories Co. of Oran, to reveal montmorillonite clay. The clay is used in treated form as a carrier for pesticides, as a moisture absorbative, and as a soil conditioning mulch.

"We acquired 600 acres in Scott County for mining," Andrew Clark, general manager of the Oran plant said.

"Our present practice is to mine about three months of the year and get out the material we need for a 12-month period. In wintertime, this material is difficult to handle because of its absorbency," Clark explained.

Materials are stockpiled, and covered with plastic for use the rest of the year.

"We will be through, hopefully, in three weeks if the weather holds," the manager said.

This fall, that portion of the 600 acres which has had clay removed from it will be reclaimed by the company.

According to Clark, A.P. Green Co. makes a practice of reclaiming the land.

"We include as part of our costs a reserve for such planning," he commented.

Reclaiming will consist of flattening the present mounds of earth, filling in holes dug for mining purposes, and planting undercover, shrubs, and trees as the clay supply is exhausted.

"The land will not be put back in the same contour," Clark noted, "It will be rolling. It primarily could be described as grazing land. It won't be as flat as what is on the other side of the highway however."

The company will reforest land mined this year in the fall.

"Our mining department plants pine seedlings, crown vetch, and autumn olive," Clark said.

"The clay mining industry is the one that wrote the recent land reclamation bill for Missouri," Clark continued.

"It has been our company policy for 15 years," he said. "We have mined primarily in south central Missouri, and all our areas are reclaimed."

The company's headquarters in Mexico, Mo., include a recreational area for fishing, boating, and picnicking, reclaimed from mined land.

When asked if it would be possible to develop a recreational area on acreage to be recalimed south of Benton sometime in the future, Clark replied negatively.

"The Mexico area was recalimed for company employes. We know of no benefit to us to cut ourselves off from the rest of our land. We have to have access to all the acreage," Clark explained.

No plans for sale of the land later exist.

Clay pits have served as recreational areas for beer - drinking teenagers in the past.

"There's some stagnant rainwater which I suppose would make a good swimming hole, but it's very dangerous," the manager warned.

"We are concerned with their (teenager's) safety and our liability," he noted.

Barricades were bulldozed to keep cars out of the area.

Safety is a factor not only at the site of the operation, but also at the company building, converted from the old Missouri Utilities facility to house kilns and an office.

"The company has been inspected four times by the state for safety, and federal mine safety inspectors will drop in periodically to make certain that we conform to the standards of the new mine safety act," Clark said.

A staff biologist for the Missouri Air Conservation Commission visited the plant Wednesday to familiarize himself with its operation, in advance of enforcement of new air pollution laws which go into effect this fall.

The air commission is concerned with the plant because its pesticide carrier product is a grade B poison, and is toxic if taken internally. The particles manufactured must be large enough to be free of dust, to insure that they get on the ground and not in the air.

"This is our most strict quality control," Clark said.

Surgeon General's Health Status Question Brings Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)— The U.S. Surgeon General has called his 5,500 commissioned public health officers to battle a recommendation that their special status, and his, be abolished.

The angry response of Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld came only hours after an advisory committee appointed by the Nixon administration said his post and the 98-year-old commissioned corps of the Public Health Service should be eliminated.

"The report is so destructive to the corps that we will continue to suffer damage to morale, to recruitment and to retention during the interval while the report is being considered," Steinfeld said in a letter to members of the commissioned corps.

The committee, headed by John A. Perkins, former under secretary of health, education and welfare, said the paramilitary cadre of 5,500 doctors and other health professionals has lost its special mission and should be absorbed in the regular civil service system.

The commissioned corps constitutes only one-seventh of the otherwise civilian, 40,000-man Public Health Service.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

If a man makes a reputation, he has to redouble his efforts in order to keep it.

* * *

"FOR THE NIGHT COMES ..."

An anonymous author wrote the following lines many years ago. Now more than ever they constitute a keynote for successful living. They might be called a "spiritual strategy": "The Lord has given to every man his work. It is his business to do it, and the devil's business to hinder him if he can. As sure as God has given you a work to do, Satan will try to hinder you. He may present other things more promising. He may allure you by worldly prospects, he may assault you with slander, torment you with false accusations, set you to work defending your character, employ pious persons to lie about you, editors to assail you, and excellent men to slander you. You may have Pilate and Herod, Annas and Caiaphas all combined against you, and Judas standing by ready to sell you for thirty pieces of silver.

"But keep about your work. Do not flinch because the lions roars; do not stop to stone the devil's dogs. Do your work. Let liars lie, let the devil do his worst; but see to it that nothing hinders you from fulfilling the work that God has given you.

"He has not sent you to make money. He has not commanded you to get rich. He has never bidden you to defend your character. He has not set you at work to contradict falsehood which Satan and his servants may start to peddle. If you do these things, you will do nothing else; you will be at work for yourself and not for the Lord.

"Keep about your work. Let your aim be as steady as a star. Let the world brawl and bubble. You may be assaulted, wronged, insulted, slandered, wounded and rejected; you may be abused by foes, forsaken by friends and despised and rejected of men. But see to it with steadfast determination, with unfaltering zeal, that you pursue the great purpose of your life and object of your being, until at last you can say 'I have finished the work you gave me to do.' "

Are big eggs more economical than little eggs? Not always. Small eggs can save you money when they are more than one fourth cheaper by the dozen than large eggs. Medium eggs are money savers when they are more than one eighth cheaper. The minimum weight for the large size is 24 ounces per dozen, for the medium 21 ounces and for the small 18 ounces.

FIT IT FIRST AND AVOID PAYING LATER

A growing number of state and local governments are being held liable for negligence associated with court-proven failure to maintain safe roadways. Few states need this additional and unnecessary drain on their budgets. In cases such as these, a nickel's worth of prevention is worth dollars in court costs.

Though most jurisdictions refuse to permit law suits based on failure to adopt or install traffic control devices, maintenance of traffic control equipment, once installed, is another matter. Failure to maintain streets and highways in a reasonably safe condition can result in legal liability.

Limitations do exist. In some states, liability is confined to instances where a physical defect or obstruction exists. Others, in growing numbers, hold that negligent conduct in maintaining either the street itself or controls necessary to assure reasonably safe travel can be brought before the court. A duty to warn may also be part of the duty to maintain.

Over ninety-three appellate level decisions since 1965 have considered whether a municipality, county, township or state should be held negligent for failure to install traffic control devices, failure to maintain existing devices or maintain a safe roadway.

Local governments have been held responsible for conditions on and along the roadway. And when found guilty, have had to pay damages.

Judgments against the state or local governments are increasing, adding additional demands on already strained budgets. The cost of prevention, in most cases, would have been far less than the cost of litigation. Technology and materials exist to make highways safer. The citizen's job is to insist that this technology be used to correct known or anticipated danger spots on or along neighborhood streets and roadways.

Preventive maintenance which upgrades existing roadways, signs, pavement markings and other driving aids can reduce traffic accidents and lessen the probability of serious personal and financial injury.

Highway users should report problem areas to their local traffic departments the moment an unsafe condition is noticed. When brought to their attention, maintenance men can be dispatched to correct the condition before it becomes worse or causes a serious mishap. Damaged street signs, ruts in the roadway and broken delineators can easily be replaced. Troublesome curves can be reflectorized to make them more visible at night. Accident prevention is possible when immediate corrective action is taken.

Even if there were no such thing as a Negro, "civil rights" bills are bills for the concentration of power, which the bill of rights specifically denies. "Open housing" and the busing edicts are additional planks in the dictator's boardwalk, another unconstitutional infringement of property rights, which is the most basic and sacred of all human rights.

' "Defense" spending has increased 68% since 1960, but non-defense spending has increased 97%. Spending our way into prosperity is like ... I'm reminded of the story of the beer drinker who drove 12 miles out of town where he could buy beer five cents cheaper. When I asked him how he could justify the expense of going 12 miles to save a nickel, he said the answer was easy — he just kept drinking until he got even. '

In socialist America today, one-fourth of the people are already living off of the other three-fourths, completely or partially. In federalized America 48 million people now get regular Government checks. That's roughly — and it is rough on those of us who pay the bills and don't get any checks — one out of every two households in America, assuming no duplications. That's even rough on the Post Office, having to deliver them. I dreamed awhile back that our collectivists had an answer for that too: That they plan to integrate carrier pigeons with woodpeckers, forming a pigeonpecker corps. The pigeonpeckers would not only be able to deliver the 48 million government checks, but they would knock on the door when they got there.

This is the story of false economy as practiced by a dress shop which recently closed its doors. Unfortunately, it is too typical.

The manager of the dress shop thought that he had an adequate advertising program. His advertising consisted of telephone calls to a list of prospective customers. The calls were made by idle clerks.

The manager explained that his advertising was economical because the clerks were not busy otherwise. He also pointed out that a highly successful dress shop in a nearby metropolis used the telephone advertising.

There were several important things about his advertising that the merchant never learned before his inevitable "quitting business" sale. Among them: That the admired metropolitan shop regarded telephone calls as a very minor form of advertising, which supplemented a large and continuous newspaper advertising program; That if an advertising program is successful, there are no idle clerks to make telephone calls;

That the telephone calls were only reaching five per cent of the women in the local trade area;

That a large portion of the women contacted resented being called away from their household chores to listen to a sales talk;

That the limited information related over the telephone was promptly forgotten; That, considering the time of the clerks, the calls were costing fifty cents per contact; whereas, complete and more effective contacts could have been made through the local newspaper at less than one-half cent each.

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you still having trouble telling the sexes apart?

You are? Well, little wonder. Instead of taking pride in looking different, the members of both sexes seem to be more and more determined to look as much alike as possible.

However, this mutual neuterization hasn't gone so far as yet that in most cases a determined bystander can't still figure out the sex of an individual. The question is why he would want to take the bother.

Here, for example, are a few remaining ways to tell the hims from the hers.

If it will still bend over to pick up a dropped penny, it is a middle-age male. If it won't stretch its tight girdle to retrieve anything less than a dime, it's a middle-age female.

If it is always accused of never listening, that's Papa. If it is always accused of never stopping talking, that's Mama.

Put a dinner check on the restaurant table. Does it make little shrill cries of alarm and say it has lost one of its contact lenses? Undoubtedly it's a career woman. Does it simply reach into its pocket and pay the bill? Undoubtedly a career man.

If it wants to go out and have a drink during a family fuss, it's the husband. If it wants to cuddle up and kiss after a family fuss, its the wife.

Can it forgive quicker than it can forget? A woman. Can it forget sooner than it can forgive? A man.

But what if you are walking behind a couple of teen-agers arm in arm, each wearing long hair, sloppy sweaters, faded and patched denim pants, and identical sandals? What about their sex?

If you're real nosy, you might ask them their names.

"I'm Pat," says one.

"And I'm Terry," says the other.

That's no help. What's in a name any more? The only way to be sure of the sex of a teenager is to be the parent of one and that's too much trouble to ask anybody to go to just to satisfy simple curiosity.

"An Industry Of Commitment"
Commitment"

Generaliy people agree that a measure of governmental scrutiny is a wholesome thing in regard to certain basic industries. But, when such scrutiny is turned into a crusade to destroy public confidence in an industry on the strength of half-truths and publicity-seek-ing headlines, the result for the victim can be disastrous. By the time an industry runs the gamut of biased figures and vote-catching statements emanating from a congressional hearing, it is distorted in the public mind like a mishapen reflection in a fun house mirror.

The U.S.prescription drug industry has been forced to stand in front of such a mirror for more than a decade. The president of a major drug firm has said: " ...those of us who are close to this industry see an industry which I sometimes wonder if ever anybody else sees at all. The world of headlines and the real world are far apart..." Concerning what today's prescription drug industry is really like, this spokesman observed: " .... This is an industry of commitment...." It is committed to research -- and spends more on research than its total net income. It is committed to development -- development of drugs such as penicillin which would still be a laboratory curiosity were it not for the huge investment and mass-production effort that made it available to all who need it. The drug industry today is committed to high standards of quality control and to 100 per cent distribution of its products. The smallest hamlet in the United States has available the most sophisticated of lifesaving drugs. The industry is committed to education carried on through technical journals, films hospital meetings, detailmen and literature. Finally the industry, as a private enterprise, is committed to promotion in the marketplace.

Without this, the other services would not be possible.

As the drug official observes, "..... the pharmaceutical industry is not just a manufacturing industry, but a service industry as well....a service and a product industry .... This is basic to an understanding of what we are...."

WHO'S 'TERRIBLY
WRONG'?

Sen. Stuart Symington has good reason to be critical about the publication of a report of the Senate -House Atomic Energy Committee before permission was obtained from its members.

In the report were conclusions supporting the construction of a third Navy nuclear- powered aircraft carrier — conclusions with which Sen. Symington strongly disagrees.

Symington believes carriers are too vulnerable to enemy attack and cost too much in relation to this risk. In response to testimony by Adm. Rickover, the senator pointed out the danger posed by the Russians' producing far more submarines than the United States.

In referring to what he called "terrifying figures," Senator Symington said:

"They show that we are putting our Navy on top of the water, in effect, while the Soviet Union is putting its navy primarily underwater. It shows that one of us is terribly wrong ... "

Certainly before Congress takes any action on the proposed third nuclear -powered carrier it should give full consideration to Senator Symington's arguments. Also to arguments of the Navy in its proposal for another carrier.

Development of all kinds of surface -to - surface and air -to -surface guided missiles seem to have greatly increased the vulnerability of all surface ships, including aricraft carriers.

The question to be decided is whether the money that would have gone into a third nuclear- powered carrier cannot be more wisely spent in building new nuclear- powered submarines to keep pace with the Soviet's fast-growing submarine force.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--Lawmen don't talk about it out loud, but they expect a big blow-up in the ghettos this summer.

All the explosive ingredients are present:

* Unemployment--More than 40 per cent of the black teenagers in the ghettos can't find work. At the same time, most cities are short of money and are cutting recreational services. Millions of young blacks will be in the streets, hustling pocket money, stewing over their grievances, looking for trouble.

* Addiction--Heroin addiction is centered in black urban ghettos. Of the nation's 250,000 heroin addicts, a disproportionate number are poor blacks. They must turn to crime to raise the $50 a day it costs to satisfy their craving.

* Disillusion--Miltant young blacks have abandoned any hope that the Nixon Administration will rescue them from poverty and discrimination. Increasingly, they regard revolution as the only solution. Many have been trained for violence by the Army.

All it will take, lawmen fear, is a hot summer to ignite the tinder.

--VIETNAM SECRETS--

Every Administration has been less than frank with the public about what has been going on in Vietnam.

As far back as 1962, a State Department message, still classified, directed U.S. commanders in Vietnam not to take reporters on missions that might result in bad publicity. "Ambassador has over-all authority for handling of newsmen, in so far as U.S. is concerned," read the message. "He will make decisions as to when newsmen permitted to go on any missions with U.S. personnel....Correspondents should not be taken on missions whose nature such that undesirable dispatches would be highly probably."

The message also ordered suppression of the fact that Americans in 1962 were already directing combat missions against the Viet Cong.

"It not repeat not in our interest," cautioned the secret instructions, "to have stories indicating that Americans are leading and directing combat missions against Viet Cong....Sensational stories about children or civilians who become unfortunate victims of military operations are clearly inimical to national interest."

The message also warned sternly: "U.S. military and civilian personnel must see that (these instructions) are adhered to scrupulously and that Ambassador given complete cooperation if we are to avoid harmful press repercussions on both domestic and international scene."

Though this message has been superseded by others containing noble language about the public's right to non-security information, the original guidelines continue to be followed throughout the Vietnam War.

--AIR FORCE FIRING--

The Air Force recently urged a young officer to resign because of his views of Vietnam, then used his resignation as grounds for kicking him out.

Caught in the squeeze play was Lt. James Carr, a 1968 Air Force Academy graduate, who had planned an Air Force career but had gradually become disillusioned with the Vietnam War.

He joined the Concerned Officers Movement, and spoke to his immediate superiors of his misgivings. They suggested he should resign from the Air Force.

After talking it over with his wife, Carr submitted his resignation. His action had the approval of his superiors at the Malcolm Grow Medical Center, Andrews Air Force Base, outside of Washington.

But meanwhile, he discussed his Vietnam views in an impromptu television interview after a Concerned Officers meeting. This raised the hackles on the back of Air Force Secretary Robert Seaman's neck. His office promptly called the base for Carr's records, which were hand-carried by helicopter to the Secretary.

Carr's next efficiency rating was low, and his resignation was cited as the reason for the drop. Then Seamans turned around and used the poor rating as justification for bouncing Carr out of the Air Force. Instead of letting him go ahead with his resignation, Seamans gave him an involuntary honorable discharge.

In other words, Carr was advised by his superiors to resign, then was fired from the Air Force for taking their advice. "It would be ludicrous, absurd if it weren't so underhanded," he told us.

Footnote: The Air Force insists Carr was ousted because his "performance over the past three years was below standard." Until his dissent, however, his work was rated "outstanding" to "above average." As for the helicopter delivery of Carr's records, the Air Force said an officer happened to be going from Andrews to Seaman's office anyway and brought the papers along.

A WEST POINT DEFECTOR

First Lt. John R. Vequist made some remarkable statements in Stockholm, Sweden, recently. The lieutenant, who is absent without leave from the U.S. Army, said he could not "go along with the idea of killing people who had not done any harm to American citizens." Vequist, who arrived in Sweden on May 16 and asked for political asylum, also declared: "I feel that war should be waged only when a country has to defend itself directly."

Military officials cannot remember a West Point graduate who deserted or went AWOL. Of what sort of stuff is Vequist made? Traditionally, the U.S. Military Academy has turned out a large share of the professionals of Army Officer Corps. Our young men with aspirations to become Army leaders go there after highly competitive examinations and they attain an education at the expense of the nation, which is happy to pay the tuition but expects leadership in return.

It is not the prerogative of the soldier, be he a raw recruit in the ranks or chief of staff, to determine upon whom we shall wage war. That is the constitutional function of elected civilian officials. Vequist's case suggests that something has happened to us internally. Surley it is not national rot.

The Plain at West Point has always been symbolic of a democratic process that guaranteed our military preparedness. One solider who led us to great victories never forgot that Plain, for it instilled in him the greatness of leadership. Many years ago a song rolled across that Plain. "Old soldiers never die, they just fade away." General of the Army Douglas MacArthur continued to hear it until he faded away. HLH.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Few who know the black movements, few who know national politics, few who know the South and even fewer who know Mississippi politics don't know Charles Evers, He's the black mayor of little Fayette, Miss.

He is a man of strong words and stronger politics. Yet, he talks of building his small community just as would some civic leader thousands of miles distant from the tensions in his sector of Mississippi.

What of his relations with the white community? What of his attitude now? What of his struggle? I asked this black leader to answer frankly. Here is his reply:

By Charles Evers
Black Mayor of Fayette

Fayette, Miss.:-- In case you haven't heard, we're moving in Mississippi. We are doing this together, blacks and whites, because any other way is stupid, self-defeating and wrong.

It hasn't been easy, but changing the system never is. Nor has the change taken place overnight. Some of us have been hard at it for 21 years or more. And far too many have lost their lives, or been critically maimed in the struggle.

But there is no point in constantly dwelling on the past. Anyone who can read ought to know by now what kind of oppression Mississippi's blacks have suffered since the days of slavery.

What concerns me most is the present -- and the future. Today's Negroes simply are not going to permit our children to grow up in America denied the right to fulfill their potential in dignity as men and women. That is what the shouting and fussing is about.

But harsh words, threats and talk of burning have never gotten us anywhere. While I can sympathize with those relatively small numbers of Negroes who are convinced that the system will never change, especially among the young, I have to tell then that they are wrong. But they have got to work to change it. Nobody has ever given up privilege or power without a fight. The whites who control the power structure in Mississippi (and elsewhere) are no different. That is why we Negroes must be smart -- we've got to use our heads and hands to effect change.

We in Mississippi have learned that there are two crucial ways to change the system -- by ballots and dollars. We need political and economic power. Together the two are the route to freedom. That is why we spent so much time and energy registering black people to vote. Between 1965 and 1970 we increased the total of Negroes registered in Mississippi from 28,000 to 250,000. The white bigots and extremists fought us hard along the way. They killed my brother Medgar, Vernon Dahmer, Wharlest Jackson, Michael Schwerner, James Chaney, Andrew Goodman and Viola Liuzzo. All of them were registering voters and the die-hards knew that once we were registered, we were on our way.

But registering and voting by themselves were only part of the answer. Even after the number of black voters was large enough to effect the outcome of elections, most white politicians continued to drag their feet, whether it was to desegregate the schools, or attract jobs for our people, or provide food stamps for our hungry or decent medical care for the poor. (This foot dragging robbed the poor whites just as much as it robbed the poor blacks, by the way.)

So we finally learned that we ourselves had to seek election for public office as well. That is why I am running for Governor of Mississippi and why hundreds of blacks are running for state legislature, county offices, school superintendents, sheriffs, justices of the peace. It is the reason why I ran for Mayor of Fayette in 1969. We decided then that we were able to provide the kind of government that the white folks before us had never proved capable of -- a government which went out to meet the real needs of the whole community and not just a small part of it.

Well, after almost two years in Fayette, we have produced a record and I'll leave it to you to judge how well we have done. We have three new factories, producing wire harnesses for new autos, industrial cleansers and cement. Together, they will provide about 285 new jobs, half of what we need to turn the county around. We have a community health service that provides free medical care to the poor. In the first year, over 3,000 people have been treated out of a county-wide population of under 10,000. More than 80 doctors from Michigan have donated two weeks of their time to staff the service under the direction of a black doctor from Mississippi. We have opened our first child day care center to help poor working mothers as well as some on welfare. We have a modern vocational training center, which has trained over 200 local men and women for new jobs. We have, through the Medgar Evers Fund and HUD, begun to build a multi-purpose community center to house most of the town's vitally needed social and economic services. The Fund has provided the town's libraries with thousands of books, as well as with matching funds for a federal grant to equip the police force with new communications equipment. Different donors have provided us with a new police car, a new ambulance and a garbage truck which the Medgar Evers Fund reconditioned and painted. The latter gives us our first regular garbage collection service.

When we first took office in July of 1969, none of us had any prior experience in running a government. We were real novices. Fortunately, we were able to turn to SEDFRE (Scholarship, Education and Defense Fund for Racial Equality) which specializes in aiding new-elected black officials. They provide us with a broad range of technical assistance, from auditing the town's books and helping to draw up a new budget to the training of our Aldermen on how to run meetings, decided on legislation and draw up applications for federal aid. SEDFRE assigned an expert to help train our police force for one year. They employed an economic development firm to conduct a survey of our economy. In short, they helped us to telescope the learning period so that we were able to perform our duties and deliver services in a relatively short time. And let me tell you that once the local white people realized that the prosperity of blacks also meant increased prosperity for whites, a great deal of resistance to our changes disappeared.

Much of this progress was made possible by whites from across the nation who donated their time, skill-, and money to the Fayette Experiment. They appreciate that what we are doing here is a microcosm of what can be done everywhere, if people only put aside their hate on both sides and work together for the common good.

We have not solved all, or even most, of Fayette's problems. Nobody could do that in two years because they are the accumulated problems of four centuries. But we are on our way and our people sense it. Life is already visibly better than it was for many, black and white. If we keep going, it will continue to improve. And we shall show the American people that together, we can overcome.

Clothes Should Be Kept Simple

NEW YORK (AP) — Know yourself and keep your clothes simple. This advice is from designer Halston, cowinner with Betsey Johnson of the "Winnie" award, for excellence in fashion design announced at the 1971 Coty American Fashion Critics' Awards presentation Tuesday.

Designer Anne Klein was elected to the Coty Hall of Fame, and Larry Kane of Raffles Wear took the Menswear Fashion Award.

"Sit down and analyze yourself. Don't overbuy," Halston said.

"People need fewer clothes today, not such a vast dress up wardrobe," he said, noting the trend toward home entertainment instead of a big night on the town.

Halston noted that his customers—often rich, chic fashion leaders—look for washable, packable, wearable clothes. Among his customers are Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, Mrs. William Paley, actress Ali McGraw, Marisa and Berry Berenson and Lauren Bacall.

Halston's clothes are famous for their sleek sinuous lines. His fall collection is filled with skinny, body-hugging styles with some blouses, draped very low in front.

Halston shared the "Winnie" honors with Betsey Johnson, designer for Alley Cat, a junior sportswear manufacturer, and for her New York boutique, Betsey, Bunky and Nini.

This year's Coty awards were elected by a vote of more than 400 fashion editors across the county. Coty, Inc., has sponsored the presentations since 1943.

EAST PRAIRIE — Miss Terry Lynn Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Walker of East Prairie, and Rodney Lee Chambers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy L. Chambers of Charleston were married June 12 at 6 p.m., in the First Baptist Church of East Prairie with the Rev. Ted Wimberly officiating.

The bride chose her sister, Miss Cindy Walker, maid of honor.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white street-length dress with bodice and lantern sleeves of chantilly lace. The skirt featuring an empire waistline was softly shirred of polyester crepe. Her headdress was lily of the valley caught up with a white velvet Diro bow. She carried a nosegay of baby pink rosebuds and baby's breath with white satin streamers.

Ann Landers

Teens Want More Than Things from Parents

Dear Ann Landers: I started a letter to you a couple of hours ago. I left it on my desk after writing only a few lines. My dad walked by and saw it. He said in a half-kidding way, "I see you are writing to Ann Landers. I can't imagine what YOU have to complain about." I didn't answer. At the dinner table he started again---"Don't forget when you criticize your parents to Ann Landers, be sure to tell her you have your own telephone, that we remodeled your bedroom and put in a stereo. Be sure to mention that we promised you a trip to Europe next summer after graduation."

It's funny, I WAS going to mention all those things--- in a different context. My whole life seems to be things, things, things- and more things. I'd gladly give up all the THINGS if my parents would only treat me like an adult. I can't recall ever having had a real converation with either of them. I guess this is my problem, Ann Landers. What's the solution?—Too Much And Too Little

Dear Too: I gather you are about 17---and this is pretty late to try to initiate your first real conversation with your parents. From your father's remarks, I assume you two are operating on different wavelengths.

Parents who believe a stereo and a trip to Europe are where it's at are a sad lot. Unfortunately, they become sadder as time goes on and they realize they have no relationship with their children.

Dear Ann Landers: Should I continue to remain friendly with a person who is in desperate need of professional help--even though the relationship is threatening my own emotional balance? This person keeps me on the phone for hours and the conversations usually end with her screaming and hanging up on me.

I feel sorry for her, but I fear for my own mental health. Sometimes, after a particularly stormy session, it takes days before I am able to regain my sense of balance. If, in your opinion, I should discontinue the relationship, please tell me how to show this person I wish her well.—A.T.H.

Dear A.T.H.: You can best help your friend by suggesting the names of two or three doctors who have helped others.

Only an extremely stable person can tolerate the abuse of a sick person without feeling hurt or resentful. You obviously cannot handle it, and you should not try.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me what is wrong with people who do not answer letters. I have called friends long distance after extended periods of silence, just to see if they are all right. On the phone they say, "I'll put a letter in the mail today"--but they don't.

This has happened to me so many times I have just about lost my faith in people. I enjoy writing letters. To me, it's the next best thing to conversation. I can't understand why, at this very moment, at least 15 people owe me letters. Why are so many people slobs?--- A Mystery Wrapped In An Enigma

Dear Wrapped: Not all derelict correspondents are slobs. Some are rather nice folks who are unsure of their spelling, their penmanship, or grammar--or they re-read a letter after having written it, and it sounds dumb, or illiterate, so they decide no letter at all would be better than what they're written. Reserve judgment honey, because you never know why people don't write.

Give in or lose him...when a guy gives you this line, look out! For tips on how to handle the super sex salesman, check Ann Landers. Read her booklet, "Necking And Petting--What Are The Limits?"

Matinee Produces Los Angeles Romp

What is so rare as a day in June?

Any weekday when the Dodgers play baseball in Los Angeles.

Or a Tom Seaver home run.

The Dodgers made the most of an infrequent matinee home date Thursday, trouncing St. Louis 11-4 with a sunburst of 14 hits.

Then, in a night game, the New York Mets made the most of Seaver's second major league homer—a tie-breaking shot in the eighth inning—to nip the Montreal Expos 2-1 behind their ace right-hander's five-hitter.

In the only other game on the National League schedule, Philadelphia shaded Cincinnati 3-1 on a two-run single by rookie Roger Freed in the 10th inning.

In the American League, Milwaukee trimmed California 6-0; Baltimore whipped Washington 6-1 and Detroit blanked Cleveland 3-0. Oakland and Minnesota were rained out.

The Dodgers, beaten twice by the Cardinals under the lights, bounced back to take the finale of the three-game set before an afternoon crowd of 19,282.

It was the only midweek day game scheduled this season for Los Angeles, where the Dodgers played exclusively at night last year except on weekends.

"I like it," said Jim Lefebvre, who broke out of a two l tump to pace the Dodgers' attack with a homer and two singles, good for four runs batted in. "Now I can have dinner at home and relax."

Lefebvre, who went into the game with just four hits in his previous 38 at-bats, poked an RBI single as the Dodgers exploded for eight runs in the second inning, then poled his seventh homer of the season with two on in the fourth.

Lefebvre's three hits brought his season average back up to .284.

Seaver jumped on a 1-1 pitch from Bill Stoneman with two out in the eighth and drove it over the left field fence to break a 1-1 deadlock at Montreal. The first homer of his five-year NL career also came at the expense of the Expos—last season with Rich Nye the victim.

He struck out nine Expos on the way to his ninth victory against three setbacks.

Stoneman, 9-6, also gave up five hits before giving way to a pinch-hitter in the eighth and struck out eight, bringing his league-leading total to 134.

The Reds, victims of Rick Wise's no-hitter Wednesday ni ght, finally broke their scoring famine when two-out doubles by Tony Perez and Bernie Carbo in the ninth lifted them into a 1-1 tie.

But the Phils pushed over the deciding runs in the 10th on Larry Bowa's single, a sacrifice, two walks and Freed's bases-loaded single up the middle.

Deer Season Set

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The gun hunting season on deer in Missouri this year will run for nine days, from Nov. 13 through Nov. 21.

The archery season will be the same as last year, from Oct. 1 through Dec. 31.

During the gun season successful hunters must tag their deer and take them to a checking station in the county where the animal was bagged, or an djoining county, the same day. Before and after the gun season archers must have their animals checked within 24 hours.

The conservation commission ordered last year's system of deer hunting units or regions continued.

This time it will be a boon to northeast Missouri (unit 3) where plentiful animals will give hunters the right to kill any deer the first two days of the gun season.

Units 5 and 6 also will have the first two days of any deer hunting.

In units 7, 8 and 9 it will be any deer the first four days and bucks only thereafter.

Units 1, 2, 4 and 10 will be bucks only for tne entire season.

Several special and managed hunts on refuge or wildlife areas will be announced by the commission next month.

Here are the unit designations:

Willie Tops All Star Vote

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays replaced Johnny Bench as the leading vote getter in the balloting for the National League All-Star team, the Commissioner's office announced today.

With over one million ballots counted, and less than one week to go before the voting deadline of June 30, the Giants venerable 40-year-old center fielder has received 540,390 votes, while Hank Aaron of Atlanta is third with 526,386.

The closest race is for the starting shortstop berth. But Harrelson of the Mets leads with 276,809, but he is followed closely by Don Kessinger of the Cubs, 211,885, and Maury Wills of the Dodgers, 197,735.

Willie Stargell of the Pirates, who leads the majors in homers and RBI, is third in the outfield behind Mays and Aaron. Joining Bench and Harrelson as the infield leaders are Willie McCovey, Giants, first base; Glenn Beckert, Cubs, second base; and Joe Torre, Cardinals, third base.

The All-Star game is scheduled to be played Tuesday night, July 13, in Detroit.

Both the Elks and Harts Standard scored narrow victories in Senior Babe Ruth baseball play last night at VFW Stadium.

Elks, 7-0 in the league standings, came from behind with a six-run last inning to avoid their first loss of the season.

Elks won the contest over Leible implement 7-5.

Harts Standard halted a last inning Lindsey M & H rally with the scoring and winning runs stranded on base to win 7-6.

The Elks put one run on the scoreboard in the first to grab an early lead. Leible responded with four runs in the third and one additional mark in the fifth to move ahead, 5-1. Two walks and three consecutive singles in the third gave Leible the four runs.

The last inning was all the difference. The Elks pushed the winning runs home to protect their undefeated statis.

Leible's Danny Hei belted a triple and a single to anchor the four hits. Bill Colwick worked the mound for the Leible and received the loss.

The Elks scattered six hits, including a double by David Evans. Five of the Elks' safeties came in the final inning. Mike Mitchell was the winning hurler. Harts Standard picked up 11 hits and scored seven runs in its victory over Lindsey's M & H. Caproco's 16-3 baseball victory over Sealtest in the American league last night was just a small sign of what followed.

In the nightcap Ziegenhorn Insurance embarrased Ryan Construction in a 46-1 contest.

Two doubles by Caproco's Gardner, and two base hits by Littleton and Marcum anchored the winner's seven-hit attack. Caproco scored two runs in the first to grab an early lead and added to the margin with five runs in the second and nine in the third.

Gardner and Marcum went two for three at the plate for Caproco and scored three runs each.

Sealtest put only three runs on the board and these were in the final two innings. Hart blasted the only Sealtest hit in the game, a double in the final inning.

Hurley collected the win for Caproco and Green was tagged with the loss.

Two doubles from both Bridger, Turner, and Russell anchored Ziegenhorn's 21-hit barrage in the 46-1 Caproco win over Ryan Construction. Ziegenhorn's first six batters each crossed home plate at least five times, and the first six sticks accounted for 18 of the team's safeties. Sellers belted the games only home run, a two run shot in the second.

Ryan's Couch and Tisdale collected the team's only hits. Springs scored Tyan's only run, in the first.

Ivie was the winner for Ziegenhorn. Gardner suffered the loss for Tyan. Scoring:

Musial League

Rotary and Malone and Hyde were winners in the Musial baseball league last night at Farris Field.

Rotary skipped past the Sikeston Standard, 6-4, in the first game and Malone and Hyde remained unbeaten with its 28-1 decision over Todd Laundry.

The Standard outhit Rotary, 13-9, but still fell victim to Rotary's six-run total. Both teams scored three runs in the final inning with the printers final rally halting with the tying runs stranded on base.

Longstreet and Beach collected two hits apiece for Rotary. Ross and Throop scored two runs each in the game. Lloyd Holloway was on the mound for Rotary and worked the game for the win.

Northcott belted two doubles and a single to pace the printers' 13-hit barrage. Teammates Love, Blow, and Beaudean belted two hits each. Blow and Tate tagged triples for Standard. Barry Love worked the mound for the Standard and received the loss.

Malone and Hyde remained in its division's top spot.

Malone and Hyde connected for 12 hits, including two doubles from Hampton and Heavener and doubles from Beebe, Alberts, and Watson. Beebe, Heavener, Watson, Hampton, and Alberts each smashed two hits apiece in the game for malone and Hyde.

Mark Alberts handled the pitching chores for M & H and picked up the two-hit victory.

Todd Laundry's John Adams spoiled Malone and Hyde's chances at the no-hit win with two hits, a single and a triple. Williams was the losing hurler.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

Pitchers Star

What do Dave McNally and Jim Slaton have in common?

Well, not much really. After all, McNally has been pitching for the Baltimore Orioles for 10 seasons while Slaton wasn't even in the major league when this one began.

But they both had the opposition in the palms of their hands Thursday as they tossed fourhitters, McNally stopping Washington 6-1 at night and Slaton carrying the Milwaukee Brewers to a 6-0 blanking of California in a day game.

In the only other American League night game on the abbreviated schedule, Detroit silenced Cleveland 3-0. Oakland's game at Minnesota was rained out.

In National League action, Los Angeles ripped St. Louis 11-4, the New York Mets nipped Montreal 2-1 and Philadelphia clipped Cincinnati 3-1 in 10 innings.

McNally's 12th triumph of the year against just four setbacks put him second only to Oakland's 15-game winner Vida Blue in major league victories. Slaton, 2-1, was rewarded with his first complete game and first shutout in the majors.

The Baltimore left-hander got all the runs he needed in the first inning as Don Buford crashed a leadoff homer and Brooks Robinson followed walks to Boog Powell and Frank Robinson with a single for the first of his three runs batted in.

Brooks also lofted a basesloaded sacrifice fly in the third and singled in a run home in the fifth, then took second on a walk and scored himself when Andy Etchebarren, grounding into a forceout, kept the Senators busy on a rundown play between first and second.

The victory was the Orioles' 20th in 25 games and kept them 6½ games ahead of Detroit in the American League East.

The Brewers staked Slaton to a five-run lead in the fourth inning and the young hurled protected with a two-hitter until the Angels opened the eighth with a pair of singles. But a forceout and Tony Gonzalez' double play grounder got him out of danger.

Tommy Harper ignited the Brewers' outburst with their first hit off Clyde Wright, 7-7. A walk and Andy Kosco's single broke the scoreless duel and, after another walk, Dave May smacked a three-run double, then scored on Slaton's infield single when catcher Jeff Torborg dropped the throw to the plate.

Mickey Lolich scattered eight hits and fanned 11 Cleveland batters as the Tigers slipped past idle Boston into second place in the East Division.

Singles by Dick McAuliffe and Mickey Stanley and Norm Cash's sacrifice fly produced a first-inning run and Detroit capped the scoring in the seventh on Aurelio Rodriguez' double, Gene Lamont's single, Lolich's sacrifice and McAuliffe's single.

NBA Relaxes College Rule

BOSTON (AP) — A sports war between the National Basketball Association and the NCAA appeared imminent today with the NBA's relaxing of a so-called "four year rule" to permit hardship case collegians to join the pro ranks.

"It looks as if the NBA is declaring all-out war against colleges," said University of Massachusetts coach Jack Leaman, who recently lost junior Julius Erving to the American Basketball Association.

"The colleges have been a free minor league system for pro basketball, but maybe now things will change," Leaman said.

The NBA long has held it would not sign a player until after his class has graduated. However, in the face of a recent court ruling and actions by the rival ABA, the board of governors revised the league rule Thursday at the windup of annual league meetings.

Under the rule change, a college player who has not completed his education may request permission for NBA draft eligibility. The player must prove he is a hardship case based on what NBA President J. Walter Kennedy called "financial condition, his family, his academic record or lack of it, and his ability to obtain employment in another field."

Yankee's Lose All-Star Game

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)— The International League All-Stars pounded three Yankee pitchers for 17 hits, then held on to defeat New York 15-13 Thursday night in the 15th annual IL All-Star game.

A crowd of 11,001 saw the Stars slam three home runs, then take a 15-7 lead. But the Yankees struck back and had the tying runs on base when the game ended.

Left-hander Bill Rohr of Tidewater was the winning pitcher. He pitched a scoreless fifth inning. In the bottom of that inning, Dave McDonald of Winnipeg hit a home-run to break a 7-7 tie. The blow came off right-hander Jim Hardin, who was also clipped for a three-run home run by George Pena of Syracuse.

Pena drove in five runs, with a home run, single and double, and was voted the most valuable player in the game. His RBI total broke an All-Star game record. Other home runs were hit by Bobbie Grich of Rochester for the All-Stars and Bobbie Murcer and Jake Gibbs for New York.

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Twins Monday signed three of their choices from the free agent draft.

Signed were pitchers Marty Hulse and Reggie Row and third baseman Frank Suarez.

Cuban Church Life Holding On

NEW YORK (AP) — Church life seems to be holding its own in Cuba, and even gaining ground in some cases, although under heavy restrictions of Fidel Castro's Marxist-Socialist government.

This is the general picture that emerges from recent reports of churchmen from that island nation or visitors to it.

"Either there is an increased freedom, or the church is just now becoming uninhibited enough to discover the freedoms that it has had," says Joyce Hill, a United Methodist missions official, after a 17-day Cuban visit.

From town to town, she said, "church meetings were held without any difficulty from local authorities," although she heard accounts of some instances of individual harassment and attacks on pastors in small villages.

In a similar vein, two Chilean Roman Catholic bishops, who made a fact-finding tour of Cuba, report that the Church there is "the only institution of the past that has survived the revolution."

They say that despite the rigid limitations imposed on it, and the distrust between the Castro regime and Christians, "the parish communities are stronger now, with more lay participation."

"Christians in Cuba can go to church—that is not the problem," says Auxiliary Bishop Bernando Ariztia of Santiago. But he adds that the Christian message is restricted to the churches, and can't be preached outside them in public places.

"It is impossible for a group of Christians to meet in a private place or at home for discussion," he says. "There are small parish communities, but they must meet in the church or the rectory."

Although the Catholic bishops say that baptisms now are down about half from preveolution figures two Cuban Baptist leaders report that baptisms, membership and contributions have risen in the decade since Castro took over.

The two Baptists, the Revs. Manuel Salem and Humberto Donguez, both of Havana, told a recent meeting of European Baptist leaders in Switzerland that most Cuban pastors who had been imprisoned have been released and have resumed preaching.

Miss Hill, executive secretary for Latin America of the World Division of the United Methodist Board of Missions, said there "appears to be a greater openness on the part of the government toward the church."

But she also cited cases in small towns of beatings of parish priests and vandalism against church property.

Methodism, she adds, is not growing numerically, since some members are leaving the Church, but others are coming in to take their places, maintaining membership at a steady level.

The POWER of FAITH

BY WOODI ISHMAEL

Lew Anderson is a talented composer, musician and arranger. He has successfully worked in every area of popular and contemporary music. Since 1964, he has given his talents as director and arranger to a volunteer choral group in Larchmont, N.Y., known as the Musicommuters, a group of 65 dedicated people who love to sing, for good causes.

Recently, at the suggestion of Anderson's minister, he composed the music and lyrics to what is called "A New Sound of the Testaments." It is in five parts: Genesis, God So Loved the World, Noah, The Twenty-Third Psalm, and Exodus. It is a stirring and inspiring experience of worship. The chorus is accompanied by a combo of electric organ, guitar, bass and drums. The sound goes from Bach to rock and back.

Anderson has not only inspired his chorus to new heights but also his audiences. His "A New Sound of the Testaments" has given a new and contemporary dimension to the scriptures and old and young alike come away from each performance with a revived faith.

Rock Album To Be Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— The rock opera and album "Jesus Christ Superstar," which portrays the last seven days in the life of Jesus Christ is being made into a movie, Broadway show and concert attraction.

The stage version of "Superstar" is slated for an October opening in New York and the first concert for July 14-15 in Asbury Park, N.J. and later for college audiences, according to Ned Tanen, vice president of Music Corporation of America Inc.

He said MCA and the Robert Stigwood Organization of London signed for the adaptation of the popular album. The Stigwood organization will produce the stage version and both companies will produce the concert tour.

Universal Studios will produce the motion picture.

Crusade for Religion in Public Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)— A Washington woman has embarked on a crusade to get religion back in the public schools because, she said, "without knowledge of religion you cannot understand English literature, Middle East history and the arts."

Mrs. Ella Harllee, founder and president of the Educational Communications Association, said there is a growing demand by students and parents to bring the Bible back into the classroom for objective study.

Nearly a decade after the Supreme Court's ruling banning prayer in the public school, the National Education Association in a special report observed "...many schoolmen thought they had to throw out the Bible even as a literary resource."

As the court's ruling became clearer, the NEA said, schools learned that the court encouraged objective instruction about religion. A survey in 1970 disclosed that one-half the nation's larger high schools offer courses in religion.

Justice Tom Clark in June 1963 wrote: "It might well be said that one's education is not complete without a study of comparative religion or the history of religion and its relationship to the advancement of civilization....Nothing we have said here indicates that such study...when presented objectively as part of a secular program of education, may not be effected consistent with the First Amendment."

In her current desire to see religion taught objectively in the public schools, Miss Harllee said in an interview, "We are seeking knowledge for the students, not indoctrination."

The Rev. Francis Wellford Hobbie, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, put up a billboard last month reading: "Dear Mom and Dad, Your Silence is Killing Me...in Southeast Asia, at home on campus."

He said the purpose was to awake the adult Little Rock community to the problems and to get their reactions.

Altar Girls Shatter Boys Only Tradition

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Four altar girls have begun serving at St. Matthias Roman Catholic Church in suburban Bala, shattering a boys only tradition.

Donning brilliant red skull caps and cassocks and white surplices, the girls began assisting priests at the altar during Masses, a duty the church once said only men and boys could perform.

"I just didn't think it was fair for the boys to do it alone," said Regina Durante, 14, whose classmates credit her with instigating the drive for altar girls.

Three other eighth-grade girls who serve with her are Cathy Herold, 14, Lee Ann Kieser, 14, and Marion Schreiber, 13.

"We are seeking a quiet acceptance," said Msgr. John J. Noone, the pastor, as the girls started their duties to the 4,000 parishioners without fanfare or announcements.

"It is a delicate situation at the moment," Msgr. Noone said.

The Archdiocese of Philadelphia has no stated policy on the use of altar girls. Although aware of developments at St. Matthias, the archdiocese considers it a decision by the local pastor.

A spokesman said that no other church in the diocese has altar girls, but girls have served in the same capacity in some other sections of the country.

Thomas Kelly, 13, an altar boy said, "It's all right to have girls. I don't have any objections, but some of the boys seriously object. They say that if they can serve Mass, then why can't they be drafted?"

Corner On Questions

QUESTION: HAS RED CHINA BECOME A FRIEND?

ANSWER: In 1941 propaganda united Hitler, Mussolini, and Stalin on every communication level. Suddenly Stalin was removed from the unholy trinity and the billboards presented comrades Roosevelt, Churchill, and Stalin. Sincere minds searched vainly for justification for the switcheroo...neither repentance nor regret manifested itself. Can an enemy really be a friend?

Today's repercussions often expose yesterday's heroes. Those who should most embrace principle too frequently bow to human greed and personal gratification. What a tragedy that images are promoted rather than produced. If history improperly places its characters, God will not! Scripture teaches: "Be sure your sin will find you out."

Strange! that men who burn draft cards, destroy property, and commit insurrection remain unprosecuted, while men like Lt. Calley are besmirched and condemned. Wild! that the news media attributes economic failure to conservativism when government has neither been predominantly nor consistantly anything; however, here comes the fantastic! Because Red-China decides it is ready to feast on fatness, does kindness to a few ping-pongers and news-managers justfiy expediting visas, relaxing currency controls, carrying cargoes, and trading products with the communist butchers? Are Americans to forget Chiang-Kai-shek, American prisoners, and Chinese aid to enemies among other atrocities?

To "turn-off" the "Light of the World," is noless fatal than to ignore history. Jesus said: "He that is not for Me is against Me." As unchangeable as the sunrise, an enemy is not a friend. Conversley, a friend is no enemy. Jesus proved His friendliness---"He was wounded for OUR transgressions, He was bruised for OUR iniquities: the chastisement of OUR peace was upon Him; and with His stripes We are healed." While pinkos and reparations and Reds repent of nothing, Jesus gives redemption to every broken-hearted sinner. God promises: "The blood of Jesus Christ God's Son cleanseth us from all sin."

"WHY ME?"

AND

"HOW, LORD?"

Moses had two big questions, and God answered them both. First he asked, "Why me?" and the Lord said, "Because I have chosen you." Then he wanted to know "how," and the Lord answered, "Do what I tell you, and I will show you how." Whether getting the people out of Egypt or providing for them in the wilderness, God had the means if Moses could only show an obedient faith.

When believers are moved by the Spirit to speak to others about Christ, they sometimes say with Moses, "Why me?" The question, "Why NOT me?" is more appropriate. It puts the burden for an answer on me instead of on God. It recognizes the sovereignty of God in my life as His child. It admits the wisdom of God in directing all evangelistic effort. It eliminates the flimsy excuses which are unbecoming and unrealistic for Christians. It confirms God's work of grace within us.

Trying to get the "how" worked out shows our lack of faith in God. Moses wanted to know how the Lord would provide meat for the Israelites (Numbers 11:22), and Nicodemus asked how a man could be born being old (John 3:4). They even suggested solutions which were both unreasonable and irrelevant. Laboring over how to witness or how the Spirit might use it is downright riduculous! Just to do it . . . and leave the "how" to God.

" HOPE BEYOND TRAGEDY"

Hardin Predicts Food Price Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — According to Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin higher food prices are likely—but he hopes they may even be welcomed by thoughtful housewives.

He thinks also that farm subsidies are going to be around for years. And he figures President Nixon will be at least as popular among farmer-voters in 1972 as he was in 1968.

Making these assessments in an interview, Hardin said higher food prices are one way to help farmers get a larger share of the nation's income. And he added that comsuers will go along once they understand that current price structures hurt farmers.

As to a quick end to government farm subsidies, forget it.

Those will be around at least until 1976 and maybe longer if administration hopes fade for a "market-oriented" agricultural economy.

Asked about Nixon's political standing with farmers, Hardin said the 1970 congressional elections did not generally involve administration farm policies.

In some farm-belt congressional elections last November, opponents said Nixon farm policies were reason for victories over Republican candidates.

Hardin did not debate the point but insisted that overriding local issues were more important generally than any actions undertaken by his department.

Q. Do you feel that the President will be a strong with farmers as he was in 1968?

A. I really think he will be.

Q. Do you look forward to taking a personal role as a campaigner in '72?

A. I guess I'd have to answer that by saying that I would be available to do whatever the President and the party asked me to do. I would presume at this point that they would probably want to utilize me to some degree as they did in '70. But there have been no discussions.

Hardin said he personally enjoys political campaigning. He was a professor and head of the University of Nebraska until joining the Nixon Cabinet 30 months ago.

The Agricultural Act of 1970 has had a firly good reception among farmers, Hardin said. It basically continues price-support structures and payments on such crops as feed grain, cotton and wheat but removes the stiff acreage controls which were in previous farm laws.

Administration officials have consistently pointed to the new law as being more flexible for farmers. It also puts more emphasis on free markets rather than direct payments from the government, although the latter are retained in a scaled-down form.

"The most important thing is to get our inflation under control," Hardin said. "And strong efforts are being made to do this. I's been slowed down."

Farm exports, estimated now at a record $7.5 billion for the year ending June 30, are important and are continuing to expand. Farmers "understand and appreciate" this, Hardin said.

As to farm income between now and the 1972 election: "We're hoping that prices will improve a bit between now and then. There are certainly chances that they will," Hardin said.

Farm credit has been a problem but improvements are being made by Congress in laws governing Farmers Home Administration and the Farm Credit System of land banks and other cooperative lending agencies, he said.

Q. If higher farm prices are forthcoming, does this signal higher consumer food prices?

A. I feel so long as we have a situation ... when the rate of return for capital and labor is lower on the farm than it is in other parts of the economy, that we've got to do everything we can to improve farm income, and that means improved prices ... and if this means some higher prices at retail, as it probably would, I think the consuming public in this country would support it, particularly if they understood the full picture, that farmers are really being hurt by the current price structure.

Hardin said the chance of corn blight occurring this year does not pose a great threat to the American food supply.

If blight is no worse than last year when it was the main contributor to a 15 per cent cut in yields, there will be plenty of corn and no impact on food prices at all, Hardin said.

If blight is far worse, he said, a shorter crop would "undoubtedly affect the supply of livestock"

The end of a 21-year trade ban with Red China and the dumping of a requirement for shipping grain to the Soviet Union in at least 50 per cent U.S. ships is a step in the right direction but is impossible to translate into effects on farm exports at this time, Hardin said.

Hardin says tha$cmespite a continuing trend in Congress to urban membership and orientation he feels farmers are getting a fair shake on Capitol Hill.

"I haven't sensed that there's really an unwillingness in Congress .... to deal with the special problems of agriculture," Hardin said.

"People made statements that there was no longer interest in a farm program, but there was. That was passed.

During the development of the Agricultural Act of 1970, Hardin and other administration farm officials said the new market-oriented features were a step away from the more rigid programs of the past.

Critics have said the new law is a step toward phasing out all government crop payments. Hardin does not acknowledge such a goal.

The payment operations, even under the new law, are expected to cost around $3 billion this year.

"We haven't yet harvested a crop under the new farm programs," Hardin said. Then, referring to a question on whether payments will eventually end, he said:

"I just don't think we can make that kind of prediction ... I feel, as I've said many times, that until there is a substantial change in farm income from the market can we eliminate farm payments.

"My major concern has been to give the markets a chance to operate freely and the payments be made in a manner that didn't interfere with them."

Hardin said he does not expect payments to be eliminated before 1976.

There has been speculation on how soon President Nixon might appoint a White House farm adviser. Hardin said he felt the plan still is under consideration.

Four Charged With Sodomy

BLOOMFIELD — Four inmates of the Stoddard County jail have been charged with sodomy in connection with assaults which began around June 12. Discovery of the crimes was made by a sheriff's deputy Saturday.

Charges on three counts have been filed against Danny Wayne Deberry, 20, of Bloomfield, Floyd Dean Handley, 20, of Bernie, and Bobby Tyrone Griffith, 20, of Dexter. William Earl Vandiver, 22, of Bernie, faces four charges on the same offense. They are to appear Friday in Magistrate Court.

According to Sheriff Edsel Edwards, the four have been separated from the rest of the prisoners by placing two in each of two cells. There are not enough cells to isolate each prisoner individually.

Q—Has any U.S. president been an only child?
A—No.

Two Arrests For Stoddard

James Hopper, 22, and Charlie Burnett, 27, both of Bell City, were picked up by police last night on a Stoddard county warrant on charges of burglary and stealing.

The pair were turned over to Stoddard county authorities.

One of the heroic exploits during the attack on Pearl Harbor was achieved by Dory Miller, a Negro Navy mess attendant. The World Almanac recalls. Miller had taken over an antiaircraft gun aboard the battleship Arizona and was credited with destroying four Japanese aircraft. He was awarded the Navy Cross by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

American Business Goes Abroad To Compete With Cheaper Goods

Editor's note: In the endless struggle to compete on equal terms with cheaper foreign goods, American business is setting up shop abroad in steadily growing numbers. The Following article, first of five examines this trend, and the monumental problems it poses for the nation.

WASHINGTON (AP) — American business is going multinational with a rush that matches the stampede to "go conglomerate" in the 1960s.

As the corporations go global, they carry American capital technology and managerial skill to the earth's far corners.

And leave alarm bells ringing back home.

Complaints are piling up that American jobs and possibly some vital portions of the nation's industrial base for defense and economic stability, are going overseas.

Organized labor which formerly carried the banner of free trade has taken alarm at vanishing jobs and shrinking memberships, and has joined some major industries in the drive on Congress for import quotas.

The unions, led by AFL-CIO, also are bracketing the multinationals in their barrage of criticism, as "runaway employers" who move plants to Europe, the Orient, or the Caribbean where labor is cheaper.

Ironically, competition from imported goods is the main reason many corporations have gone global. They are simply trying to stay competitive with foreign products by becomming importers themselves—of components, of semi-finished goods, or of entire products which come back to the U.S. consumer with only one American part, the brand name.

There are, however, many other reasons why U.S. industry is deploying subsidiaries overseas—to gain growth by reaching new customers, to get behind trade barriers that American exports cannot pierce, to cut costs and improve profits, to compete on even terms with foreign firms in world markets.

For the American consumer these are among the signs of the changing times:

—The Dodge Colt, one of the new American "answers" of business on a product line or "moving offshore," GE and others have gone offshore. That way, Borch estimates, at to the small-car imports, is 100 per cent made-in-Japan, by Mitsubishi.

—If you buy Ford's Pinto, another of the U.S. industry's answers, you may get a car with an English-made engine and German-made transmission assembled either in Canada or the United States.

—Ninety per cent of all radio sets, tape recorders and cassettes sold in this country are made abroad. So are more than half the black-and-white color television sets, nearly onefourth of all colot TV sets, two -thirds of the sewing machines and most of the typewriters.

A major industrialist, Board Chairman Fred J. Borch of General Electric, told the Associated Press: "I don't know any American manufacturer who would not prefer to make his product in this country for this market."

But in cases where the choice became either going out least half the American employes are kept on the job—designers, engineers, sales force research and development people and others.

Pakistanis-Bengalis Continue Fight

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP)— Medical sources estimate that about 50 Pakistani soldiers are being wounded or killed daily in fighting that continues between the army and East Pakistan's rebellious Bengalis.

The sources said the army hospital in Dacca gets 15 to 20 seriously wounded soldiers daily from the combat along the province's borders with India. The other casualties reportedly go to hospitals in Jessore and Bogra.

Early Tuesday explosions shook the eastern part of this provincial capital shortly after the arrival of the first batch of foreign newsmen. There were no reports of damage or casualties.

Pakistani sources said the blasts were the first since Friday night. They said explosions have continued in Dacca since the army suppressed the Awami league led by Sheik Mujibur Rahman. The league is East Pakistan's majority party.

clean the air electrically!
Growing concern about air pollution has created new interest in ways to clean the air inside our homes. For this reason, several electrical devices are rapidly gaining in popularity.
Window air conditioners are being installed for their air cleaning ability, as well as air cooling. With air conditioners, doors and windows may be closed in summer, keeping out dust, dirt, pollen and other outside pollutants. Indoor air is also cleaned by the air conditioner filter, which removes much of the cigarette smoke, lint and other impurities from the air. Central air conditioning does an even better job of cleansing inside air. And a good tip for any type of air conditioning equipment is to change filters often.
A tremendous break-through in indoor air cleaning is the electronic air cleaner. This remarkable device removes even very tiny particles from the air electronically. It can remove dust, dirt, lint, smoke, bacteria and up to 99% of the pollen.
This electronic unit may be installed on conventional central heating or air conditioning systems. Several portable and console models are also available that may be used in any room.
If you want more information on how electric equipment cleans the air, call us or your heating and air conditioning dealer.

Kidnapping Charges Dismissed

TULSA (AP)— Federal kidnapping charges have been dismissed against David Emmett Mitchell, a Texas man arrested in Miami, Okla., in 1968 and later charged with the slaying of a Dallas motel clerk.

Mitchell is to be released from custody in the mental ward of the medical center at Springfield, Mo., and placed in a state mental institution at Rush, Tex.

If his mental condition improves so he can assist in his own defense, he will face charges of robbery and murder in Dallas.

The charges came after the body of George D. Hooper, 49, Dallas night clerk at a motel, was found packed in ice in Miami.

Officials arrested Mitchell and Letha Faye Hohenberger, then 29, at Miami. They pleaded guilty to kidnaping Hooper. Mitchell was given a life sentence and Miss Hohenberger was sentenced to 50 years in federal prison. She will remain in custody in Ohio.

U.S. Dist. Judge Allen E. Barrow dismissed the kidnapping charges. A federal prisoner cannot be placed in a state mental hospital as long as a federal charge or sentence is pending.

Couple Regains Custody Of Adopted Baby Lenore

MIAMI (AP) — A Florida judge has ruled that Nicholas and Jean DeMartino, who abandoned their Brooklyn home after New York courts said they had to return their adopted daughter Lenore, may keep custody of her.

"Dear God, we won," Nicholas DeMartino cried when Dade County Circuit Judge Ralph Cullen ruled Tuesday that the DeMartinos could keep Lenore.

Jean DeMartino hugged their Miami attorney, William Colson. She and her husband wept openly with joy.

Sitting just a few feet away Olga Scarpetta also broke into tears. Her child was not her own.

Miss Scarpetta, 33, put the child up for adoption with a New York agency four days after Lenore's birth on @ May) 1970. The DeMartinos, then living in Brooklyn, took custody of the infant four weeks later.

Mis Scarpetta, a Colombian native now working as a secretary in New York, later tried to get Lenore back. The adoption agency refused but lost the fight in court.

The DeMartinos fled to Florida with Lenore and their 4year-old adopted daughter, Linda, last month. They said they plan to stay.

Miss Scarpetta's attorneys said they would appean Cullen's decision even though the DeMartinos said if Lenore were to demonstrate she wanted to see her natural mother, they would agree to it.

Cullen said he decided to deny Miss Scarpetta's Florida suit "in view of all the time, evidence and the DeMartinos' good reputation."

DeMartino, an attorney, and his wife still face contempt of court charges in New York.

Arkansas And Oklahoma Dispute Tract of Land

POTEAU, Okla. (AP)— If LeFlore County Assessor Rubin White can convince Atty. Gen. Larry Derryberry, a 49-year-old dispute between Oklahoma and Arkansas may soon be revived.

The dispute is over a 130-acre triangular shaped piece of land which, according to the maps, is inside Arkansas. White says the land belongs to Oklahoma and his county.

The section, known as Coke Hill, gained law enforcement services from Fort Smith, Ark., in 1904 at the request of the Choctaw Indians.

White said "The Indians gave them the power to enforce laws. They did not give them the deed to the land."

The Arkansas legislature annexed the land in 1905 and the annexation was approved by Congress.

But in 1907, when Oklahoma became a state, the state constitution claimed Coke Hill.

A rumored Poteau River navigation channel, which would run through Coke Hill, has made the land more valuable.

White is asking Derryberry to determine its ownership.

"We are not trying to take away anyone's land," says Oklahoma Asst. Atty. Gen. Odie Nance, who inspected the site last month. "We just want to know which state should exercise governmental domain."

Astronauts And Cosmonauts May Enter Joint Program

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — American and Soviet spacemen could link up in space within three to six years if discussions currently under way here are brought to fruition, it was learned Wednesday.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials announced that American and Soviet space experts discussing compatible spacecraft docking systems here are actively studying the possibility of testing the compatible system using existing spacecraft of the two nations.

A source indicated that this could mean a joint AmericanSoviet space flight as early as 1973 and certainly within the mid-70s.

The surprise announcement released Wednesday stated that the U.S. and Soviet delegations "discussed the possibility of future space flights which would test the requirements being developed for compatible docking systems.

"Such flight experiments might be conducted between spacecraft of the Apollo and Salyut station types and between spacecraft of the Soyuz and Skylab station types. It was agreed that the technical and economic implications of these possibilities should be studied by the two sides," the announcement said.

Apollo is the spacecraft system now being used by America to explore the moon. Skylab is an orbiting space station which NASA plans to launch in 1973. Salyut is a Russian orbiting space station now flying and manned by three cosmonauts. Soyuz is the Soviet command ship type of craft used to ferry men to and from the Salyut.

Observers said that docking mechanisms now on these types of spacecraft possibly could be modified so that they could be linked in space. If such modification is carried out, the two countries could dock spacecraft in orbit much earlier than if totally new docking systems had to be developed.

The 19-member Soviet delegation arrived here Sunday night and discussions began on Monday. It was the second meeting between the U.S. and Soviet experts. They met last October in Moscow to lay the groundwork for the session here.

American Folk Art On Public Display

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major collection of primitive American folk art, rescued more than six years ago from the Washington slum warehouse where a government laborer toiled on it for 14 years, goes on public display for the first time Sunday.

Its title: "Throne of the Third Heaven of the Nations' Millennium General Assembly."

A 30-by-16-foot gallery at the National Collection of Fine Arts is crammed almost to overflowing with the work: the crowning life effort of James Hampton, a black laborer, to construct a church's entire ecclesiastical appointments.

Glittery is the word for what Harry Lowe, curator of exhibition and design at the National Collection, calls "clearly a fine example of American folk art."

Throne-like chairs, altars, tables—all are covered with intricate layers of foil in gilt and silver. Constructed of wood and cardboard, the work is dotted with hundreds of burned-out lightbulbs, again covered with foil. Angel wings abound, built up of intricate layers of cardboard, covered in foil.

Dominating the display of 30 major works is a throne, more than seven feet tall, crowned with the words "Fear Not" in letters covered with aluminum foil.

Little is known about the artist except that he worked for the General Services Administration; and that for 14 years he paid out $50 a month rent on a cold brick warehouse in a slum area alley wi thin sigh of the Capitol to work on his creation.

Hampton died in November 1964 at the age of 53, leaving no clue to the vision which led him to put in untold hours on the "Throne of the third Heaven ..."

A coincidence led to saving his work from the trash heap. A month after Hampton's death, The Washington Post printed a story about "the strange legacy of a lonely man." A London paper picked up a similar story and a friend sent a clipping to Lowe, who had just come from the Tennessee Fine Arts Center at Nashville, along with a facetious note which, as Lowe recalls, said something like:r"I suppose that in your new job you will be acquiring works like this."

Thus learning of the creation, Lowe went to see it, decided it was indeed worth acquiring, and raised the money to buy it—largely a matter of paying back rent on the warehouse.

The work has been in storage since it was salvaged in January 1965.

He said bids to display the work have come from the Walker Art Center in Milwaukee, titeney Museum and the Museum of Contemporary Crafts in New York City, but no decision has been made as to whether it will travel.

Some wall plaques included in the display are in English, but others are printed in a sort of cabalistic script which no one has been able to decipher. Notebrooks and loose papers found in the warehouse contain hundreds of pages of the same script.

Inscriptions on the plaques which are in English, with Hampton's spelling intact, read:

"This is true that Adam the first man God created appeared in person on January 20, 1949 this was on the day of President Truman's inauguration.

"It is true that on October 2, 1946 the Great Virgin Mary and the Star of Bethlehem appeared over the nations capital.

"This is true that the Great Moses the giver of the ten commandments appeared in Washington April 11, 1931.

"And God spake all these words saying I am the Lord thy God which have brought three out of the land of Moses."

The mountainous terrain of the island city has resulted in numerous "ladder streets," actually steep flights of stairs which make picturesque scenes for tourists but also serve as very practical communications arteries for Hong Kong's millions.

Drug Addiction Replaces Alcoholism As T.V.'s Favorite Health Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — Alcoholism seems to have been pushed to the back of a high television shelf since the dramatic emergence of the problem of widespread narcotics addiction.

ABC sought Wednesday night—regretfully without much originality—to return the spotlight to what narrator Frank Reynolds called the nation's number one health problem.

Many of statistics were tossed into the hour. There are an estimated nine million alcoholics in the nation; 26,000 died last year in accidents related to excessive drinking; there are probably two or three alcoholics in every city block, most of them undiscovered and untreated.

Although much has been written and spoken about what one medical specialist called "a chronic disease," there is still a social stigma connected with it, with the result that vast numbers of sufferers are never revealed and, consequently, fail to receive help and treatment in time.

The alcoholic and his problem to himself, family and employer, have been under study for almost half a century. While the cause of this type of addiction is still unknown, it can be arrested, but only by the victim himself.

ABC covered a lot of familiar territory in TV's standard documentary form. There was the "non-drinking alcoholic"—a nurse—describing her days as an "obsessive, compulsive drinker" to a group therapy gathering of fellow sufferers. There were the shots taken in a hospital showing older men, some derelicts from the nation's skid rows, whose health and often mental capacity had been destroyed by alcohol.

CBS and Walter Cronkite achieved an exclusive interview with the elusive Daniel Ellsberg, Massachusetts Institute of Technology research expert widely credited with turning over the so-called "Pentagon papers" to journalistic sources.

Ellsberg, in a taped interview at an undisclosed location, refused to talk about his own part, if any, in starting the battled between government and press.

He spoke long and soberly about his concern about Vietnam and about his own feeling of American leaders' responsibilities and the public's right to know.

Portions were shown on the early evening news program and in greater detail during a hastily scheduled half-hour special in the late evening.

Malden Man Wins $1,500 Bowling Prize

MALDEN — Bob McDonald of Malden took first place in the 10th annual Bob Allen's Singles Classic held this month at Benton, Ill. He has been bowling in the tournament for several years.

McDonald scored a total of 1347 pins in a six -game series bowled on June 6 to take first place honors. Second place went to Ray Meadows of Carbondale, Ill. with a total of 1326 pins.

More than 1,000 bowlers from the six states of Indiana, Kentucky, Arkansas, Tennessee and Missouri took part in the elimination tournament.

McDonald, who is sponsored locally by Laniers Jewelry, Malden State Bank and Rowe Ford Sales, won the championship trophy, valued at more than $200 and received a first place check for $1,500.00.

Guatamalan President Celebrates Anniversary Says Considerable Progress Has Been Made

GUATEMALA (AP) — President Carlos Arana Osorio celebrates his first anniversary in office July 1 and feels he has made "considerable progress" toward pacifying strife-torn Guatemala. But "complete results cannot be obtained in just one year," he added.

The president was interviewed Monday for the first time this year by a visiting foreign correspondent. He replied to written questions submitted in advance and also met with this correspondent.

The government considers that the so-called gurrillas are doomed, and the murders and other sporadic and isolated crimes which they commit are only for notoriety and to maintain a false front," Arana Osorio said. "What is left of the broken cells will be eliminated by action of the security forces."

Some estimates of the number of deaths from urban terrorism in the past year exceed 1,000. For more than six months Arana Osorio kept the country under a state of siege, suspending some constitutional guarantees as his security forces struggled to end the bloodshed. But almost daily another body is found on a back road, riddled with bullets, or another businessman is kidnaped.

The violence is blamed on extremits of both the left and right.

Osorio said the national development plan inaugurated by his government "has fulfilled the important function of promoting the socio-economic development of the country, and, at the same time, pushed the diversification of the private sector."

The plan includes the creation of a national development bank, an institute of agricultural commercialization and a national export center.

The president also said Guatemala will follow a more aggressive foreign trade policy. He said the reduction of Guatemala's quota in the U.S. sugar market is a blow to his plan to increase exports, but his government will try to offset this by consultations with out countries.

Nebraska Power Need To Cost $2 Billion For Next 15 Years

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — It will cost more than $2 billion to supply Nebraska's power needs for the next 15 years, a spokesman for the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) said Wednesday.

"In order to meet our responsibilities as a power district we will have to satisfy this power need without undue risk to the environment," he added.

The estimate came from Ronald E. Reder, director of generation engineering for NPPD in a presentation prepared for the 165th meeting of the Missouri Basin Inter Agency Committee, a body made up of representatives of states and federal agencies involved in the overall development of the Missouri River Basin.

Reder and Bob Wicina of the Omaha ,ublic Power District, which like NPPD is constructing a nuclear power plant in Nebraska, told the basin developers nuclear power is the most econo... of supplying power for the future, and they said safeguarding the environment is inherent in th...

"Hydrocarbon fuels ... known but limited supply," Reder said. "Hydroelectric is a most fully developed, an... of the nuclear fuel cycle is only beginning to come into view."

Fuel availability is tied to implementing air quality standards, he continued, and with fossil fuels in a supply crisis, "only reasonableness is needed in developing and setting regional air quality standards ... Unrealistic approaches to standard setting or expected equipment capability will be harmful to our fuel supply capabilities and will only aggravate an already troublesome area."

Wicina said the Omaha district has done extensive testing since 1967 in the Fort Calhoun area just above Omaha where it is constructing a 457,000 kilowatt nuclear plant and the district "is convinced that its Fort Calhoun Nuclear Power Station's radio-activity and thermal discharge will have no measureable or identifiable adverse effect on the environment."

NPPD's nuclear plant an 800 megawatt plant is near Brownville in southeast Nebraska. The net output will be about 778,500 kilowatts.

In a third presentation, Norman A. Berg, associate administrator of the Soil Conservation Service, described the Great Plains Conservation program as a pattern setter for regional development, which to date has involved more than 43,000 land owners and operators in more than 450 counties, working to protect 82.8 million acres of land under long term conservation contracts.

He said the program has demonstrated the value of comprehensive long range planning, of a complete management system, of effective means of putting land back to grass and of widespread application of new tools and technologies.

He said a study a few years ago of expired Great Plains contracts showed that about 90 per cent of the land owners were maintining conservation practices at the same level as under cost-share contracts.

The outmigrations from the Plains, he said 'would have been greater without the program's incentives for good managers to remain. The entire nation has a stake in seeing that this huge area continues to develop satisfactorily."

Water Pollution Board Calls Huston Hearing

HOUSTON, Mo. (AP) — An estimated 400 residents of the Big Piney River watershed area turned out at Houston Wednesday night to complain against those who have, as one resident put it, turned a clear Ozark stream into a cesspool.

The Missouri Water Pollution Board called the hearing.

Residents testified they wouldn't allow their children to swim in the river any more because of the pollution. Somen said they would no longer eat fish caught there. Farmers reported livestock dying and questioned whether pollution might have been involved.

Testimony before the board blamed the communities of Cabool and Houston, plus Ft. Leonard Wood for the major part of the pollution some was attributed to communities along tributaries that empty into the Big Piney.

There was criticism of the board itself. Some residents said it was not doing all it could to clean up the pollution.

Jack Smith, executive secretary of the board, said it has taken action based on existing laws and will continue to do so. But he said his organization is handicapped by lack of staff and money.

Maj. Gen. W. T. Bradley, commanding officer at the fort, said he was disturbed at misleading statements about the fort's role in the pollution. He said the post in in compliance with state water pollution standards. If the fort is at fault, he said, then the standards need to be revised and the fort will comply.

The watershed area comprises mainly Paulaski, Texas and Phelps counties.

Orientation Of Freshmen Begins in Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Southeast Missouri State College's summer orientation program for beginning freshmen and transfer students got under way this week and will continue through July 23.

Each evening, Sunday through Thursday, about 50 students and their parents will check into an air-conditioned, high-rise dormitory on the campus for the night and day program, which is coordinated by the dean of students' office.

During their visit to Southeast Missouri State both parents and students will hear talks covering all aspects of campus life by various college officials and will take an extensive tour of the campus.

Students will also confer with an academic advisor and decide upon the courses they will take during their first semester on the campus.

The program, while not unique to Southeast Missouri State, is nevertheless somewhat uncommon. Many colleges require their new students to arrive on the campus several days before the upperclassmen and put them through a "crash" orientation course.

This was the procedure followed at Southeast Missouri State until four years ago. Officials at the college feel, however, that the new approach is far superior.

It brings the new students to the campus in manageable groups and allows for individual attention. It involves the parents. It takes place at a time far less hectic than registration week in September. It allows time for the new students to absorb what they have learned about the college.

Several Southeast Missouri State students are employed as student leaders and parent hosts during the orientation period to supplement the college's regular staff.

The U.S. gold eagle was valued at $10 and was first minted in 1795. The eagle was nine-tenths pure gold after 1838.

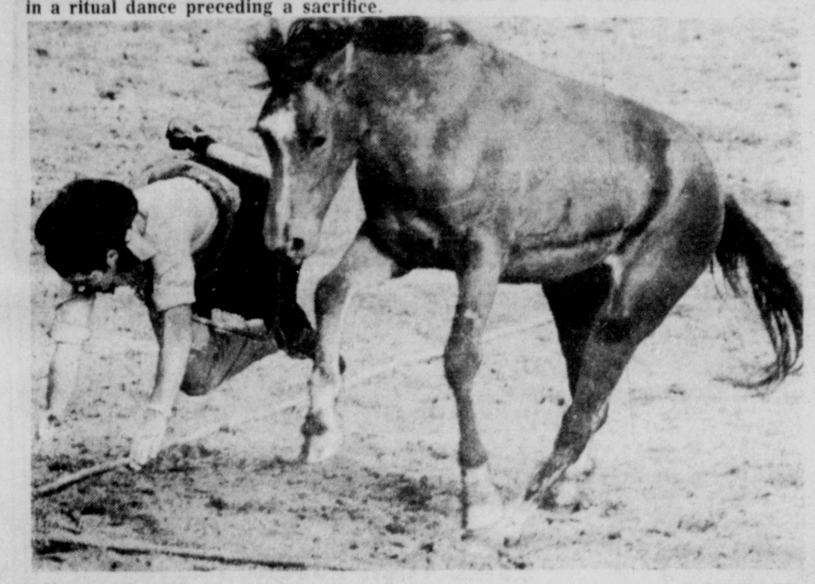
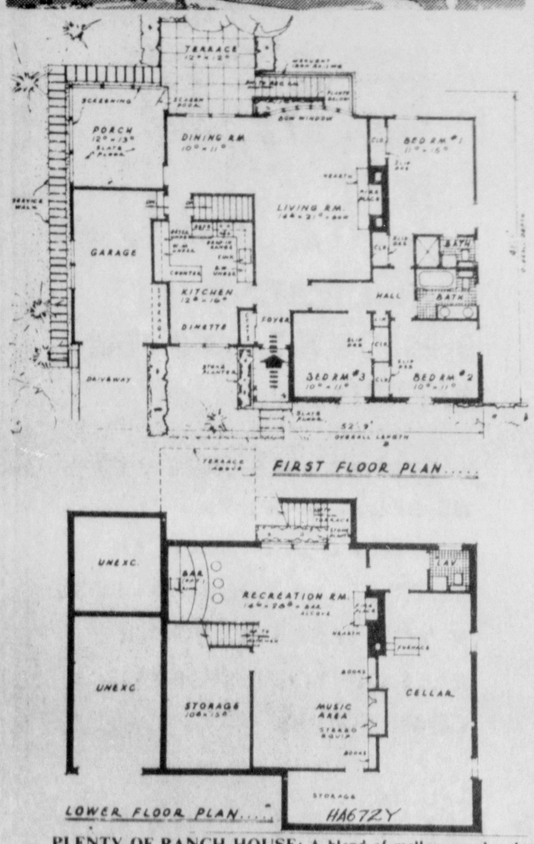
Pageant at Palmyra

A spectacular attraction of the summer season is the Mormon Pageant on Hill Cumorah near Palmyra, N.Y., an annual event since 1937 which draws upwards of 100,000 visitors from throughout the nation. Scheduled this year July 26-31, the pageant recreates on 25 stages over an area larger than a football field the Mormon story of the destruction of an ancient American civilization.

In scenes from last year's presentation, fanfare opens the spectacle (above right). An angel of the lord (above left), played by Gary Hart of Kearns, Utah, urges repentance. And below, attendants at the court of a savage king leap not for joy but in a ritual dance preceding a sacrifice.



YOU CAN'T WIN 'em all, not even if you happen to be of that Argentine breed famed for horsemanship. A gaucho bites the dust during a rodeo, South American style, at Buenos Aires.



PLENTY OF RANCH HOUSE: A blend of mellow wood and rugged stone forms this attractive exterior. Two of three bedrooms have cross ventilation. Master bedroom has a private bath with enclosed shower. Family bath contains a double vanity sink. Raised hearth fireplace and a bow window feature a large living room. Dining room overlooks a terrace and has a door to a screened porch with slate floor. Compact kitchen provides a dinette and room for appliances. Lower level contains a recreation room, fireplace, lavatory and a music area with built in shelves. Paint Brush Politics Resumes China Trade

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Trade between the United States and Mainland China is resuming after a 20-year ban with shipments of paint brush bristles to New York and food delicacies to San Francisco's Chinatown.

The ban, imposed by the U.S. government on Dec. 17, 1950, during the Korean war, was lifted as of June 10.

The 166 cartons of foodstuffs, diverted and trucked here from Vancouver, B.C., were being uncrated today. They are expected to be on sale on Grant Avenue, in the heart of Chinatown, soon.

Included are dried watercress, pickled vegetables and ginger, lotus paste, cakes of fine po ni tea, dried melons, canned cuttle fish and dried dace—a tiny fish.

Customs Director George Brokaw said Wednesday he understands that the food shipment was a few days behind a cargo of pig bristles, used for paint brushes, which went through here to New York last week.

"We expect a lot more shipments," said Brokaw.

"After all, Chinatown here is the largest Chinese community in the Western Hemisphere, and they've run out of these things years ago.

"We assume that this shipment, which was in Vancouver, was intended for sale there— where it has been imported all along—and that some enterprising dealer figured he'd divert it here and begin reviving the old trade."

The Chinese community registered no excitement, apparently because in the past 20 years it has learned to use substitute items. Some of the substitutes are grown locally, others imported from Hong Kong, Taiwan and Japan.

"We don't need anything we haven't already got," said Cecilia Chiang, a Peking native who founded the Mandarin restaurant here 11 years ago.

Frazer Wu, a former Nationalist diplomat who has been operating the Huo Kuo House in Berkeley, for nearly a decade, agreed.

Hay Fever Can Wreck You

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Harold greeted the hay fever season by sneezin'. Unfortunately, he was behind the wheel of his car at the time and plowed into the rear of Hazel's slinky new convertible automobile.

As a result, Hazel richocheted around inside of her vehicle like a billiard ball. When she finally came to a halt, she looked like she had been dumped into a side pocket and sued Harold for her injuries.

"If he had been distracted by my good looks," complained Hazel in court, "I could understand why he hit me. But, he wasn't even looking at me at the time of the crash."

"I wasn't looking at anybody," was Harold's answer. "I was sneezing up a storm. And, while I was doing it, I didn't see Hazel slow down. Certainly, a person can't be held responsible for an involuntary act like sneezing?"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold hay fever sufferer Harold liable for Hazel's injuries?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the sneeze was not the cause of the accident; that it would never have occurred except for Harold's carelessness in failing to properly watch the road and control his car.

(Based upon a 1964 Oregon Supreme Court Decision)

The Prayer from The Upper Room

"I overthrew some of you, as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, and you were as a brand plucked out of the burning." (Amos 4:11, RSV)

PRAYER: Our Father, look in mercy on Thy creatures who seek forgiveness for their transgressions. May we never spurn Thy love, given to us through Thy beloved Son, Jesus Christ. Amen.

Senate Votes Draft Extension Charts Troop Withdrawal Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to extend the draft two more years, sweeten soldiers' pay $2.7 billion and chart a Indochina withdrawal plan disowned in advance by the White House.

But after seven weeks of debate the Senate's 71 to 16 approval Thursday of the draft extension bill may well be too late for Congress to finish final action before the present Selective Service Act expires next Wednesday midnight.

Some senators threaten a filibuster if a House-Senate conference kills or weakens an endthe-war amendment added by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

The Mansfield amendment calls for a phased withdrawal of U.S. troops over nine months if all U.S. prisoners of war are released. It is likely to receive a cool reception both in conference and on the House floor.

House antiwar forces never have mustered more than 158 congressmen to vote for any Vietnam withdrawal amendment.

The conference has more than a dozen differences to reconcile between the House and Senate versions of the bill. One of the most important as an amendment by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., which raised the military pay boost to the same level approved by the House, but spread most of it among lower ranks.

Some senators had hoped to kill the draft outright as a means of forcing the military to adopt the all-volunteer armed force concept now.

The Nixon administration hopes the increased pay can prepare for an all-volunteer force after June 30, 1973. It says the draft will be needed until it is proven better pay and conditions really can attract suitable volunteers.

The Senate bill does limit the number of men who can be drafted to 130,000 the first year and 140,000 the second. The Defense Department has indicated considerably less than those numbers will be required, unless there is a national emergency.

Among other major Senateadded provisions:

—Cut 100,000 men off the overall 2.5 million force level approved by the House.

—Retain the two-year period of alternative civilian service that must be served by conscientious objectors. The House voted for three years service.

—Require the military to train experts to treat an increasingly large number of men who become addicted to drugs while in service.

—Exempt from the draft persons in families that have lost a father, son or brother in combat.

—Grant new rights to persons appealing their draft status, such as the right to have an attorney present.

—Ask the President to appoint future members of local draft boards with an eye to the race, color and ethnic and religious characteristics of most of the men they process.

The pesticide carrier is made available to A. P. Green's customers, the agricultural chemical companies, who are inspected by the Department of Agriculture.

"They are not kidding," Clark stressed.

He said that the carrier manufactured at Oran is used for pesticides that are decomposed by rainwater in five to six weeks.

"They are systemic formulations which become part of the plant structure," Clark explained.

When the complete pesticide is applied to a corn crop, for example, the plant absorbs the poison, and the corn root worm dies when he bites into the plant.

Products of the Oran plant, the pesticide carrier , soil conditioning mulch, and cat litter, all related in composition, represent a departure from the type of products manufactured by other A. P. Green plants. Refractory materials for launch pads at Cape Kennedy were provided by the Mexico plant.

The company is a subsidiary of United States Gypsum, which has 19 plants in this country, and several overseas.
